DOCTORS tell you that a man is "as old as his arteries." That refers to the average man, who is usually old too soon. His chances depend on the condition of his arteries. If they have hardened, lost elasticity and therefore check the flow of the blood, creating what is wrongly called "blood pressure," since it is really artery pressure, then his days are short.

But with the man that grows old normally the question is not about the arteries, but rather about the whole working machine.

FOR the right kind of man drifting toward what is called "old age," the knees and the ankles indicate the physical condition.

If a man of 50 or 60 finds it painful to "squat down on his hunkies" and is unable to struggle to his feet again, without using his hands on a chair or on the edge of a bath tub, then old age is overtaking him.

If a man tries to skate as he did in his boyhood and his ankles ache and turn over and his knees lack elasticity, then he is growing old.

If a man raises his arms up straight in the air bends forward, drawing in his stomach, keep his knees stiff, and finds that he cannot go down to the floor with his finger tips, that is the beginning of old age.

YOU have seen pictures of Henry Ford skating and dancing old-fashioned dances.

He puts on his skates for himself, no protruding stomach about his nape.

Between Henry Ford's head and his feet there is no accumulation of unnecessary fat, no embonpoint to prevent lacing his own shoes.

In old age, beware of fat.

Eat carefully, exercise regularly, never violently.

Watch your joints. They will regain their flexibility if you do not stop using them. Walk, run, stoop down, bend over, but do nothing violently, when you are past 40 years old.

THERE is another kind of stiffness that has nothing to do with the joints and that stiffness is in the brain.

In most of us the brain hardens early, like a concrete mixture, and ceases to receive new impressions. The hardening process begins with the average young man well to do, when the comes out of college; with the average poor man, a little after he has settled down to making a living.

We all keep on breathing, eating, some of us keep on thinking. Not one of us keeps our brain exercised.

If you keep your brain exercised, all of its "joints" working easily, you are to be envied even though your knees get stiff, your stomach big, your arteries hard and your ankles weak.

AT LAST American soldiers are no longer to be suffocated in hot weather and choked all the year round by idiotic, stiff cloth uniform collars that have hitherto cramped their necks and interfered with the action of the

Milk and Its Uses In The Home

A safe, abundant milk supply is recognized as an important factor in our national welfare.

The booklet "Milk and Its Uses in the Home" which this Bureau is offering free to its readers discusses milk as a food from the point of view of the consumer, and shows why it is exceptionally important in the diet of children and a valuable food for adults. Suggestions for the care and use of milk are also included, as well as directions for pasteurizing it at home.

WEST VIRGINIA ABANDONS PLAN TO EXTRADITE LAURA CHRISTY

Prosecutor Withdraws Order for Disinterment of Body.

LAST CHAPTER

"Strictly an Ohio Case," is Decision at Conference.

West Virginia today abandoned its threatened attempt to extradite Mrs. Laura E. Christy, 48, East Liverpool, alleged self-confessed slayer of two of her eight husbands during her 30-year matrimonial career.

Declaring it was "strictly an Ohio case," Prosecuting Attorney Thomas E. Hoffman, of Weirton, at noon, announced that the body of John Ebert, 50, Newell, W. Va., pottery worker, who was the seventh husband of Mrs. Christy, will not be disinterred. The body of Ebert, who died on Nov. 7, last, is buried in Locust Hill cemetery, near Chester.

Last Chapter of Story. As a result of this decision, reached at a conference in which Coroner George A. Arner of Chester and Dr. J. E. Abouse of New Cumberland, county physician, participated, Mrs. Christy, who, according to police, confessed that she administered arsenic to Rev. William Christy, 56, her eighth spouse, who died on Jan. 13, last, will remain in the Ohio State Hospital for the Criminally Insane at Lima.

"We have no actual case against Mrs. Christy," said Prosecutor Hoffman. "I understand she made a confession to the Ohio authorities. If there is evidence of any crime, it is in the hands of the Columbiana county officials. However, West Virginia believes the woman is mentally incompetent, and we decided it would be a useless expense to bring her to trial."

Action by the Hancock county authorities probably means the end of the Christy poison case, for, according to Dr. Charles H. Clark, superintendent of the Lima institution, the alleged "woman Bluebeard" will not be released unless a writ of habeas corpus is issued by a common pleas judge. This statement was made by Dr. Clark after he recently said that she "has no acute mental disorder but is feeble minded."

Mrs. Christy was adjudged insane by the Columbiana county probate court and committed to the state hospital on Jan. 21.

Fifty Power Class Members Guests at Dinner in Church

Members of the Power class of the First Methodist Episcopal Sunday school were entertained at a banquet in the social rooms of the church at 6 o'clock last evening. Fifty members of the class and their guests were present.

W. R. Phillips, James R. Meek and W. C. Todd, former teachers, made brief talks. History of the class was given by Lawrence Patterson. Other speakers included Dr. Frank G. Fowler, church pastor; C. R. Boyce, teacher, and William T. McNutt.

Following the banquet, the class went to the gymnasium where they witnessed basketball and volleyball games played by picked teams. The Power class, which is made up entirely of young men, has an enrollment of about 150.

COUNTY BOY SCOUT COUNCIL CAMP WILL BE ESTABLISHED ON JUNE 14, PROBABLY NEAR LISBON

A Boy Scouts' camp will be established in Columbiana county this summer, according to a decision reached by the camp committee of the Columbiana county council at a meeting in Lisbon last week.

The site has not been selected, although a location about four miles north of Lisbon is the probable choice. The camp probably will open on June 14 and continue about eight weeks.

Potters Call Mass Meeting To Discuss Annual Reunion

Plans for Outing at Meyers Lake, Canton, Saturday, June 12, Will be Outlined on March 13.

Mass meeting of members of the National Brotherhood of Operative Potters to discuss plans for the second annual reunion of workers in the pottery industry to be held at Meyers Lake, Canton, Saturday, June 12, will be held in Trades and Labor Council hall on Saturday, March 13.

Call for the session was issued today by George Goppert, chairman of the executive committee. Each local has been asked to send two delegates to this meeting, the call going to every subordinate union in the district, including Salem, East Palestine, Sebring, Alliance, Salineville, Steubenville, Minerva, Carrollton, Wheeling, Seio, New Castle, Beaver Falls, Kittanning, Caouonsburg, Niles, Falls Creek, Columbus, Chillicothe, Akron, Clarksburg, Huntington, Buffalo, Tiffin, Tiltonville, Bedford and Cambridge.

Präsident Calvin Coolidge has been invited to be the guest of honor. The invitation was carried to the White House by Congressman Frank Murphy of Steubenville.

Congressman Murphy and United States Senators Frank B. Willis and Simeon D. Fess, in the event President Coolidge attends, will also be present.

The Canton Chamber of Commerce has pledged its co-operation in entertaining the president.

State Representative Ralph W. Emmons, East Rochester, is a member of the reception committee.

FRANK AND ALBERT MANTON ENTER INTERCOLLEGIATE GLEE CLUB MEET

East Liverpool Boys Will Appear With Ohio Wesleyan in National Contest in New York on March 6.

The Ohio Wesleyan University Glee club, Delaware, of which Albert Manton, of this city, is president, and his brother, Frank Manton, a member, will represent the Buckeye state in the national intercollegiate glee club contest to be held in Carnegie hall, New York, on Saturday, March 6.

The Methodists were the winners in a state contest under auspices of the Ohio Intercollegiate Glee club council, held at Delaware a week ago. Ohio, Miami, Capital, Denison, Muskingum universities and Bluffton college also participated. By reason of this victory, the Wesleyan singers enter the national contest.

The club will leave Columbus in a special B. & O. Pullman at noon next Thursday. They will give a concert in Washington on Friday, March 5, going to New York on Saturday for the national contest. Twenty-six men, 24 student singers, Prof. Guy E. McLean, glee club director, and Dale Bartholomew, accompanist, will make the trip.

Other contestants will be Yale, Penn State, Dartmouth, Amherst, Columbia, Cornell, University of Kansas and the winner on another contest which is yet to be held in Chicago. Due to the national tournament rule which bars faculty directors, Albert Manton will direct the Wesleyan group.

The contest will be broadcast from the WEAF station in New York. While in New York the club will sing for the Brunswick Phonograph company.

The Manton brothers are sons of Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Manton, Orchard Grove avenue.

GRAND JURORS AWAIT CALL IN BRUTAL MURDER OF TROY WOMAN

Developments in Death Mystery Temporarily at Standstill.

ARREST EXPECTED

Coroner Will Return Official Verdict Before Night.

TROY, O., Feb. 27.—Mrs. Frances Drake Nesbitt, 26, pretty Ohio State university co-ed, whose body, only partly clad, was found in the bathtub of her home here February 10, was murdered by a person or persons unknown who used a weapon not yet been determined. Coroner G. J. Hance declared here today in his official verdict following the inquest early this week.

TROY, Feb. 27.—Developments in the Troy murder mystery were temporarily at a standstill today while officials conferred on the next move to attempt to solve the murder of Mrs. Frances Drake Nesbitt, 26, Ohio State university graduate.

With the grand jury in readiness to convene and return an immediate indictment all clues were being sifted today for the most promising evidence. Coroner Hance was to return his official verdict today. It was generally believed this would be the mere statement that the woman met her death at the hands of a person or persons unknown.

Officials today were silent as to developments last night, but it is known that they conferred far into the night and reviewed testimony given at the coroner's hearing. The essential points of new statements to officers were also being placed together.

An early arrest was expected. Alva B. Campbell, former county prosecutor, has been named a special assistant to Prosecutor L. E. Harvey, and was working with him today on the evidence to be presented to the grand jury when it convenes.

Church of Christ Revival Campaign Will Close Sunday

J. C. B. BEATTY LOSES COURT CASE

Judgment for $86.65 by default has been rendered by Municipal Judge J. C. Hanley against J. C. B. Beatty, in the suit brought by the Liberty Engraving company of Pittsburgh. The action was to have been heard yesterday but Beatty failed to appear. The money was claimed to be due on a half tone portrait furnished Beatty about a year and a half ago, when he opposed Governor A. V. Donahay for the Democratic nomination for governor.

HERE ARE RULES FOR CONTEST

Entrants must be at least 50 years of age, and residents of the district within a radius of 20 miles of East Liverpool. They must play old time music and limit this program to from five to seven minutes. They must appear any night during the week of March 8, upon notification.

Three judges are to select the best player each evening, and this player is to return on the evening of the grand finals (Date to be announced later) at which time the champion and the second and third best player will be chosen and the prizes awarded.

All entrants must accept the final decision of the judges. The coupon appearing in the Review-Tribune must be used by entrants.

Midland Men Held For Grand Jury on Gambling Charge

Thomas Smith and Robert H. Harris, colored, charged with maintaining a gambling house at 342 Midland avenue, Midland, were held for grand jury action under $500 bond upon preliminary arraignment last night.

Twenty-nine persons were arrested Thursday night when Midland police raided a pool room and barber shop conducted by the two men. Smith was arraigned before Justice A. P. Finnegan, while Harris was taken before Burgess Charles McNeill. The other men captured in the raid were released upon payment of $5 fines.

Money, dice, cards and gambling devices were seized by the police.

This Jimmy Lochinvarian thought of John Ingate's died in the moment of his birth. The gleam in his eye faded. No, he couldn't do that. . . . It wasn't, he decided, because he lacked the nerve. She had chosen, and he must abide.

These faint bells tolled on, and now they sounded more ominous to him.

"You mustn't trouble yourself," Eve replied at last.

"Oh, it will be a pleasure—you know that," he responded, intensely.

She smiled. "Oh! WILL IT?"

He was impelled to laugh. "You know what I mean."

"You're awfully kind."

He sat down and phoned his sister. "Come down immediately. I have something for you to do. . . . Never mind, hurry down."

He didn't want to explain, and he couldn't, anyway, with Eve listening. "Women know about these things," he said apologetically, when he put up the receiver.

"Oh, I'm afraid you are going to too much trouble." She was ashamed. She did want a lovely wedding.

"Now you are to go home and take a nap. You'll need to be fresh and all that. Run along." He was good humoredly commanding in tone.

"These letters—"

"Never mind about the letters. Holiday today."

Backache making you miserable?

YOU can't be his whenever day brings more lameness, torturing backache and sharp, stabbing pains. Why not find the cause and correct it? Often it's weak kidneys. If you suffer annoying kidney irregularities, too—feel tired, nervous and worn out, use Doan's Pills. Doan's have helped thousands. Are endorsed here at home. Ask your neighbor!

Here's an East Liverpool Case: Mrs. C. C. Wells, 777 Fenton St., says: "My back ached like toothache and I couldn't rest after I went to bed. I couldn't straighten when in a stooped position. My kidneys bothered me and I felt badly all over. Doan's Pills from the Anderson Drug Store relieved me."

"I wish you wouldn't say anything to the persons around here before it happens. Clay—"

"I won't. Shoo! Run along!" She went, touched. How kind and thoughtful he was. . . . She could see how he felt. His eyes, as always, revealed him. She felt a pang. . . . Josephine came into her brother's office crowning. She didn't like to be summoned so summarily as this.

"Listen, sis, be a good chap and help me," he explained, in a tone which, remembering how he had acted at the breakfast table, puzzled her. "Eve MacLurie is being married today. The poor girl hasn't anyone to see to things, and I want it staged properly. It's to be at the Brick church downtown. Now while I run around and see the rector and arrange for music and choir boys, and then have the florist rush up some palms and rubber plants and century plants, you see what you can get hold of in the way of a wedding dress. You know her size. Take it out and put it on her. The wedding is to be at 2 o'clock."

Josephine was regarding him from over a stiffening jaw.

"Come on, be a good fellow and do this for me, and I'll give you that extra thousand you want for the ball, even if I have to hook my auto."

"Aren't you afraid your interest will be misunderstood?"

He gave her a glance of annoyance. "No one with any sense could misunderstand. Will you do this."

"I suppose I'll have to."

He ignored this as he arose and took his hat. "I'll call you at MacLurie's in two hours to see how you're getting along."

A little later in the morning Mrs. Henry Clay Wales wearily climbed the steep stairs in her home and pounded on the door of the bedroom occupied by her son. "Clay! CLAY!"

Something resembling an answer came from within.

"Do you know what time it is? I called you an hour ago." She opened the door and saw the figure of her son hunched in bed.

"I'm not going to work today." He did not open his eyes. He did not want to meet the glance he knew was upon him.

"Why not? Are you sick?"

"No, mother. I'm just not going to work today. I have some business to attend to this afternoon." A moment he dreaded was upon him. He wondered if there was not some way to escape it, to postpone it.

Mrs. Wales studied her son. She got the impression he didn't want to look at her. Was there something he didn't want her to know? A thought flew into her mind. . . . "Clay have you lost your job?" Apprehension was in her voice.

"No, mother. No," he responded, irritated.

Again she studied him for a moment then, as if satisfied, she started to turn away. "Why didn't you tell me you weren't going to work today, so I wouldn't have to yell my tongue out, and keep your breakfast in the oven until it's burned to a cinder?"

"I'm sorry," he said, turning over.

Clay Wales had the habit of emptying the pockets of his clothing upon the dresser each night, and neatly hanging up his trousers. The eyes of Mrs. Wales, as she turned toward the door, fell upon the stuff mirrored upon the dresser.

"Why, Clay, what are you doing with so much money?"

Oh, damn! He had forgotten, he suddenly realized, to put the money out of sight. He might have known she would be in here snooping. Feverishly he searched his mind for an explanation—anything but the truth.

Mrs. Wales went over, picked up the roll of bills, and began to count. Clay leaped out of bed and grabbed the money from her hands. "Mother, why must you always be—oh, is it fair to come in here snooping?"

She recoiled before the intensity of his exclamation. "Why—?" Now her intuition told her something WAS wrong. A thousand ideas swept upon her simultaneously.

"Clay, what has happened. Clay, tell me!"

For a moment his tongue was locked, then he impulsively decided

MRS. JACKSON IS HOSTESS TO CLUB

Mrs. Samuel Jackson, of Park place, entertained the Roman club at her home on Wednesday evening. Four tables of bridge were in play and Mrs. William Doyle was awarded the favor for highest score and Mrs. Frank Mattes received the guest prize. A three-course dinner was served by the hostess, covers being laid for 18. Pink and white was the color scheme and miniature baskets of candy were given as favors. Miss Barbara Mattes, Miss Katherine Bonazawich, Miss Nell Tolan, Mrs. Alex. Rodgers and Mrs. Frank Mattes were special guests. The next meeting of the club will be held at the home of Mrs. Thomas King, of Penn avenue.

to give her an inkling of the truth. "Why, er—I'm going to Chicago tonight."

"Clay! What for?"

He might as well tell her, he decided. He had wanted to avoid this scene, but he couldn't delay it now.

"I'm going to be married this afternoon—to Eve MacLurie."

Clay Wales winced at the look of agony in his mother's eyes. Then he leaped toward her. Mrs. Wales had fainted.

He was running about the house seeking camphor, ammonia—anything that might revive her—when the doorbell rang. John Ingate was at the portal, carrying a suitcase.

EAST LIVERPOOL—AMERICA'S POTTERY CENTER

A. FEBRUARY 1926.

Exodus From Pool Rooms

If the anti-gambling warning issued by Mayor Ralph C. Benedum and his service-safety director, John W. Moore, is heeded, there should be an exodus of hangers-on from pool rooms in East Liverpool today.

Fifteen operators of pool and billiard parlors were given an "Obey the law, or your license will be revoked" ultimatum yesterday at a conference at city hall, when the executive announced that he proposed to eradicate all suspected gambling places in the city.

The order means that pea pool, high pill and other games said to be common in pool rooms are tabooed. And if proprietors and managers of these public places co-operate with the police department in enforcement of the edict there will be fewer complaints from wives and mothers who claim their husbands and sons spend no small part of their time and earnings in games of chance.

There is no unfairness about the mayor's plan. He has explained the law, warned that violation of it means arrest of the offender and revocation of his permit. And if the pool room owner who has winked at gambling and other infractions of the law in the past is wise, he will make an honest effort to clean up.

Farm Science In Turkey

Remarkable progress is being made in Turkey, along lines that Americans will approve. Mustapha Kemal, though he has been "snoopy" to other powers, is proving himself the wisest ruler that his country has had for many generations. His agricultural improvements alone would mark him as an enlightened leader.

The feudal system that prevailed under the sultans, which made the people serfs at the mercy of overlords, is abolished. The Turkish farmers now own their land as the Russian peasants do. And they are making more rapid progress than the Russians, under President Kemal's guidance.

Scientific farming is the big thing now in Turkey. The president himself operates an experimental farm near Angora, his "goat capital." There is a department of agriculture modeled after our own, which distributes information and seeds and encourages the use of tractors and other modern machinery. His department of education has established 13 agricultural schools, now teaching 2,000 students, and is sending students to farm colleges in Europe and America. The principal effort of the Turkish government seems to be centered in a 10-year program for the intensive production of cotton, sugar, wheat and tobacco.

Turkey, the "sick man of Europe," is recovering his health, and may yet teach agriculture to Asia.

Still Building

The great national building boom goes on, in spite of prophecies that would have ended it long ago. Last year, when there were more automobiles made and sold than ever before, the building industry surpassed the motor industry by a billion dollars, showing that with all our love for new sedans, we love new homes still more. The building permits so far this year suggest greater activity than ever.

No doubt the statisticians have been right up to this extent—the "building deficit" of war time has been made up, and more. But it is no longer a question of providing enough housing for families, businesses and industries according to pre-war standards. There are new standards now.

People do not merely want a house to live in. They want a better house than they ever had before. Likewise with the office and factory. Old buildings are abandoned and modern ones go up.

It looks sometimes as if, before this movement dies down, the whole country will be rebuilt. At any rate, the new construction will roll on in tremendous volume as long as prosperity lasts. And it will gain new impetus from every "real estate boom," because when people buy land they start thinking about building on it.

Over-Education

A young man in Brooklyn, N. Y., who finished high school with honors, is arrested for committing robbery. Whereupon the judge expresses the opinion that the trouble in his case was probably "over-education."

From what has been said of the superficial and lackadaisical attitude of high school and college students in recent years, it almost sounds like a compliment.

The offender in this case may plead guilty to robbery and get away with it. But if he pleaded guilty to "over-education," he would be unmercifully guyed—and deservedly so.

Whatever education he gained in school evidently failed to educate his morals, and so proved its deficiency. But on the purely mental side, his education must have been sadly lacking.

Any well educated person would know that robbery is deliberate warfare against society, that society is organized to protect its property, and that no individual can expect to buck the social organization and get away with it. As some of his less privileged but more experienced fellow-convicts would put it, he should know beforehand that "crime don't pay."

"There is enough anthracite coal in this country to last 100 years," reports a geologist. At the present rate, it should last at least a thousand.

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY

By O. O. McINTYRE

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 27.—We went yachting today to visit the Coccolob Cay club on a little island built along a strip of Florida keys. These islands were originally patches of mangrove trees in coral formation. The mangrove is a tropical tree growing out of the water and ultimately forming an impenetrable mass.

Into these roots is pumped dirt which is the basis of much valuable Florida real estate. The club has 27 members, beautiful lawns and clubhouse, and several homes for week-end guests. President Harding spent several days as a guest fishing. In the club guest book I saw among recent Broadwayites Irving Berlin and Marc Connelly.

There was a New England preacher in our party, but he thawed out our natural reserve with a few lively and, of course, proper yarns which set Kin Hubbard, Frank Shuts and Bill Hogg going with some not having quite so much delicacy in shading. Invariably I have found preachers excellent company.

Fish were dipped out of a trap before us and prepared for the luncheon. I saw a poisonous eel, and talk turned to deadly insects of the tropic. One lady told of a scorpion's bite paralyzing a woman's tongue for a week. Several husbands inquired significantly where they might be found.

The centipede is seen here now and then as is the tarantula. But there are no records of deadly insect bites during the past five years. Nor have we been plagued by the mosquito. But there is a bull fly who awakens me every morning with his loud buzz.

Our host was Webb Jay, of Chicago, who owns a yacht and 90-foot houseboat. The yacht is the most expensive of all modern luxuries, but they are common here. The all-year upkeep, considering the few times they are used, is many thousands. People tire of yachts quickly. They seem nice to own merely as something to refer to casually when company comes.

I was awakened this morning by a loud hubbub down stairs, and had just dozed off when a sudden yank landed me on the floor. Mike Hogg had arrived unexpectedly and without warning from Texas. He completed the awakening by pulling me under the shower and drenching me—palmas and all. I am glad the preacher had not yet joined the party.

Joe Cook, incidentally, has an excellent bit of shower bath foolishness in a Broadway revue. He explains his invention of a shower bath which the bather may stand under with his clothes on, receive a bath and emerge with clothes completely dry. He calls for two foils from the audience. They are placed in the bath, the curtain drawn and the showers turned on. They emerge soaking wet. "I guess I overestimated my ability," remarks Cook blandly.

Miami has a glass-bottomed boat—like those going to Catalina Islands—touring Biscayne Bay and the outer harbor daily. One may see at first hand some of the mysteries of the sea. Nowhere is the survival of the fittest so pronounced as here. The strong rule the weak and the fight of life is an incessant battle against terrific odds. Seamen are always held in a spell by the ocean's treacherous cruelty.

There has grown up in America a derivative attitude toward the civic boosters. Babbity they call it. A few sophisticated magazines, edited by horn-rimmed intellectuals whose vice virtues consist of drinking tea in fancy house robes, have actually placed a certain stigma on the hustling go-getters. Florida is an answer to the scoffers. The state has flourished chiefly because of civic boosters. A large proportion of Americans believe that because a man wears white socks and a snap tie he is a nitwit. Particularly enough in many cases their ancestors came over in wooden shoes and shawls in the steerage.

R.W. Frazer Essays Role of Indian in Booking at Ceramic

Robert W. Frazer, talented motion picture star, is authority for the statement that the most difficult impersonation he ever has been called upon to make, either on the speaking stage or for the screen, is that of the coldly impassive, vengefully taciturn and silently plotting Indian—the Indian who is far above the average of that race in intelligence and education.

This is the role Mr. Frazer pictures in the latest of the Harold Bell Wright novels to be adapted for the screen, "The Mine With the Iron Door," the newest of Mr. Wright's popular stories, and which in the short time since publication has run into the enormous sale of total of more than two million copies.

"The Mine With the Iron Door," a Sol Lesser production for Principal Pictures Corporation, and directed by Sam Wood, has been booked as the chief attraction for Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday at the Ceramic theatre. The picture follows faithfully the text of the Wright story and the principal scenes were filmed on the exact spots described by the author, the settings being in the Catalina mountain country near Tucson, Arizona.

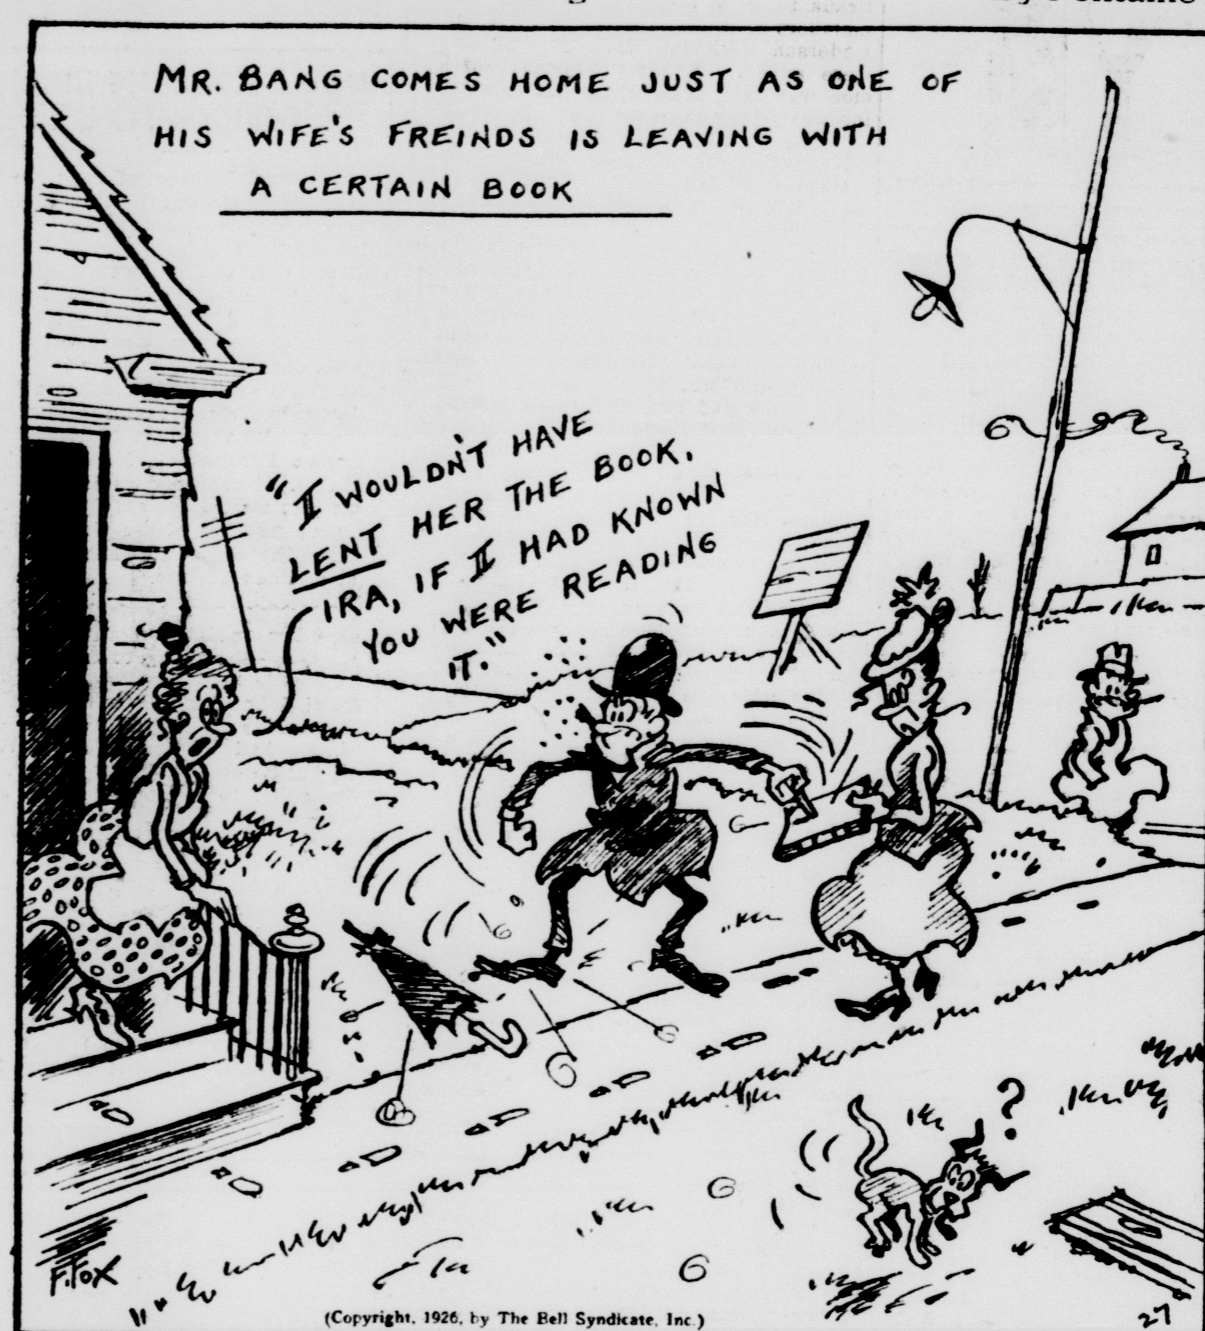

Frazer plays the part of Natachee, an Apache Indian, and thus rounds out a stage and screen career that is remarkable in its range. This star was born at Worcester, Mass., and in his early youth turned to the stage. He had important parts in "Ben Hur," "The Wanderer," "The Mirage," and "Thy Name is Woman." Next came the screen, and Frazer did exceptional work in such pictures as "Fascination," "Jazzmania," "When the Desert Calls."

The crop decrease of 4,000,000 tons of cereals and linseed last year from that of 1924 has greatly affected business conditions in Argentina.

HASKIN'S LETTER By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

The Sense of Taste.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 27.—There was once a man with a sense of taste so delicate that, so it was claimed, he could detect a 100,000 solution of quinine. He was a German physiologist named Valentin. Tradition has it that his son carried this remarkable sensory development several steps further. He insisted that he was able to taste castor oil when it was being administered to his little sister, and it made him so ill that he could not do anything but lie in bed for two days.

Children the world over and for all time have agreed that castor oil tastes perfectly awful and most of them, with many grown-ups in addition, will contend that the taste of this medicine is so distinctive and so pronounced that no highly cultivated sense of taste is required to determine that.

Accordingly there will be general interest in the pronouncement of an English authority, Prof. D. F. Harris, to the effect that castor oil has no taste whatever.

Castor oil of all kinds is virtually tasteless, he asserts, and it is its nauseating odor that makes it so offensive, and it is only necessary for a child to hold his nose, or have it held for him, in order to be able to take the medicine without the slightest disagreeable sensation. An American commentator suggests, however, that it is also well to blindfold the child, as many a youngster has been known to have a fit at the very sight of the castor oil bottle.

This comment, intended to be humorous by implication, is accepted gravely by scientists who say it is worthy of serious consideration because the nerves of taste, of smell, of sight, of touch, of heat and cold are all involved in what we call tasting any food or drink, or medicine. Frequently we refer to something as having a delicious flavor, meaning taste, when as a matter of fact it is its aroma that has delighted us, or the "smooth" way it has passed over the tongue and on down that has given us the gratifying sensation. Even the sight of a thick, juicy, well-cooked beefsteak will make a hungry man's mouth water, and it is a well-established fact, or is so contended, that no one can play a saxophone or a cornet if someone is squeezing a lemon within the range of his vision.

Many persons find it impossible to speak of persimmons without puckering up their mouths, the hypochondriac can bring on an attack of acute indigestion by merely thinking of his favorite anathema in the way of food, and everyone has known the individual who is absolutely certain he does not "like" this or that article of food although he has never eaten it.

Not So Complicated.

All this points to the conclusion that the sense of taste is extremely complicated, but the scientists say that this is not true, for all the things that we eat or drink have only four or five distinct tastes, or flavors, to use a term commonly used but not scientifically correct. Most authorities agree there are but four tastes—sweet, salt, sour and bitter—but Prof. Harris adds a fifth, alkaline, or soapy. What we generally understand as different tastes are complex experiences, made up of odors, motor experiences, made up of odors, motor sensations, and visual elements in addition to these fundamental elements.

Who would believe, for instance, that roast turkey, roast beef and roast horse-flesh all taste alike, or, in fact, have practically no true taste at all? Who would believe that in determining what we like to eat and drink we are guided by the nose more often than by the palate?

Who would not heed the suggestion that he could not distinguish between the taste of a potato and an apple? Nevertheless, the English expert not only suggests this, but asserts that he has seen a person, blindfolded and required to "hold his nose," who was unable to tell which was which as between a raw potato and a raw apple that was neither sweet nor sour to a marked degree. As a matter of fact, he says, an apple must be either sweet or sour, and what we call its "taste" is its odor which is perceived before the fruit is taken into the mouth at all and is accentuated when a bite is taken and chewed.

"Several sensations are aroused by the eating of an apple," he continues. "There is the contact with its solid substance; this is mediated by the nerves of touch or contact in the tongue, gums, cheeks, and palate. Then there is the sensation of sweetness if the apple is ripe; then the sensation of acid, especially if the fruit has been in cold storage; and, lastly, there is the smell, or odor, of it, popularly called 'the taste.'"

Another test, for the skeptical which it is promised will disconcert all those who think they know everything about the sense of taste can be made if sweet potatoes and chestnuts are available. A blindfolded person, so the assurance is given, will find it absolutely impossible to distinguish between the taste of baked sweet potatoes and boiled chestnuts. Trying this out is suggested for an otherwise dull evening when the radio is not interesting or there is too much static.

Also it is to be noted that when a person has a bad cold in the head and says that as a result he has lost his sense of taste, he is all wet, to borrow an expression from the slangsters of the day. His true tastes are still intact, but the nasal congestion, preventing the ascent of air from the mouth, has temporarily cut off his sense of smell.

"The pleasure we derive from eating is largely olfactory," says Prof. Harris. "Our enjoyment of the flavor of roast meat, wine, tea, cheese, and fruits all depends on our sense of smell. Indeed, so many of the staple articles of our food are devoid of tastes and flavors that we add all sorts of flavorings and seasonings to make them more interesting. Take the case of a milk pudding; if the va-hilla and sugar have been left out, how utterly insipid the rice or the tapioca becomes!

"We speak of a person having a delicate palate; we really mean he has an acute sense of smell. The attraction of wine for connoisseurs is in its flavor or bouquet. Alcohol has no taste in itself; it is neither acid nor alkaline, sweet, bitter, nor salt. Beer is bitter from hops, an inferior port from annie acid. Pure alcohol has an irritating effect.

"Few foods are in themselves sour—buttermilk is an exception—few are salt, few are soapy or bitter. Hence the addition of so many accessories to food—salt, flavors, relishes, condiments, herbs, and the like."

It will doubtless be a revelation to those who think they like limburger cheese for its taste to learn that in reality they like it for its smell. Those who are certain they do not like it will be comforted to know why—it is not because their sense of taste has not been properly cultivated!

ROTARIANS' LADIES' NIGHT PARTY AT COUNTRY CLUB ON MARCH 30

Lowell Patton and His Artists of Portland, Ore., Will Feature Pro- gram at Dinner.

Members of the Rotary club will entertain their wives and friends at a "Ladies Night" party at the Country club on Tuesday evening, March 30.

A musical program will be featured by Lowell Patton and his artists of Portland, Ore. Dinner will be served at 6 o'clock, a dance following. The committee in charge of arrangements includes J. M. Wells, J. W. Irwin and J. A. Bryan.

Lowell Patton, dramatic interpreter, composer and pianist, will be assisted by his brother, Gault Patton, baritone, and Ludovic Hot, lyric tenor. Lowell Patton was chosen as pianist with the famous Flying Squadron a few years ago, playing in most of the principal cities of the country. He has appeared with the Royal Purple orchestra of Portland, and was accompanist for Frances Soule, harpist, and later for Frances Ingram. He went to London and Paris for a further course of study in 1923.

The program to be offered by the three artists is known as "a musical prologue, six episodes and an epilogue." The episodes are Russian, old fashioned, religious, popular, oriental and patriotic. The program consists of folk songs, classical and popular melodies, folk dances of the various periods, religious chants and sacred classics, character songs, old time melodies, ballads, old time and modern war songs, pianologues and piano solos.

Calcutta Grange Program.

An old time program will be presented by the senior members of the Calcutta Grange at their meeting in the grange hall on March 2. It follows:

Song—"Dearest Me"—Chorus.
"What My Grandparents Ate and Wore"—C. Q. Gonzales and E. N. Hickman.

"Church Services of Ye Olden Days"—Clarence Adzell.
Song—Selected—Chorus.

"How I Took My Best Girl"—C. A. Wollam.
"An Old Time Sledding Party"—J. H. Knepper.

"Are People Happier, Healthier and Better Than in Our Grandparents Day"—T. D. Huston.

"A Tale of Long Ago"—Frank Rudtbaugh.
Song—Chorus.

"My First Recollections of Calcutta"—Mrs. Charles Calvin.
"Recreation Stunt"—Raymon Huston.

An old-fashioned lunch will be served by the social committee.

All junior members are urged to be present.

Convenience Outlets

How often you've wished you had some more places to connect new lamps, or the electric heater, or your curling iron or the vacuum cleaner! Why not make it really convenient to use all your electrical appliances by installing an extra convenience outlet in every room. The work can be done quickly and with little bother at housecleaning time.

Some Suggestions—

A convenience outlet near your bed; at the side of the dresser; in the bathroom; in the guest room; in all halls (for vacuum cleaner); under dining table (cord to pass through seam in carpet); near kitchen cabinet; in laundry; in garage.

Get an estimate of cost from any of the local electrical contractors. They will gladly take care of your wants in this line.

Keith Vaudeville
And Irene Rich in Picture at Strand

During the filming of "The Man Without a Conscience," the picture coming next Monday for a three days' run at the Strand theatre, Irene Rich appeared in the set garbed as a widow. She was completely enveloped in mourning weeds. An interested spectator was anxious to learn if, in the role she was portraying, her husband had just died. Imagine the surprise of the questioner when apprised that the outfit in which Miss Rich appeared was a disguise worn while clandestinely meeting her movie lover, and that these meetings occurred during the husband's absence.

Miss Rich plays opposite Willard Louis in this Warner Bros. "Classic of the Screen." The cast also includes John Patrick, June Marlowe, "the girl with the soulful eyes," Helen Dunbar, William Orlamond and Robert Agnew. A new bill of Keith Vaudeville will be presented with the picture.

DRY CHIEFTAIN WILL DISMISS PROBE WITNESS

Agent H. C. Gibson
Will be Let Out, is Intimation.

ACCUSED PROPST

Charged Assistant Commissioner "Rehearsed" Testimony.

COLUMBUS, Feb. 27.—State Prohibition Commissioner McDonald has decided upon the dismissal next Monday of H. C. Gibbons, state dry agent, it was intimated at the office of Governor Donahy this afternoon.

Gibbons is the man who charged Assistant State Prohibition Commissioner Propst with improper conduct and said he overheard Propst, Mrs. Ruth Farrell, Columbus, and other dry enforcement agents, "rehearsing" testimony in advance of the governor's recent secret probe into charges that Mrs. Farrell was employed by Propst to lure Marshal Harry Nutt, Westerville, into violating dry laws by furnishing her with liquor.

Gibson, it was stated, has received his salary in full up to the end of this month and his name dropped from the prohibition department's payroll.

Charges Filed.
After receiving summons from Propst requesting his appearance before McDonald next Monday to answer charges of alleged improper conduct, Wilson went to McDonald's office today and demanded that a date and place be fixed for a public hearing. Gibson turned down McDonald's invitation that he go into another room immediately and face his accusers, members of the department staff.

Charges preferred against Gibson included allegations of improper conduct in hotels at Portsmouth, Toledo and other places, and turning in improper expense accounts.

Accused Denies Allegations.
Gibson today insisted that he was not guilty of these charges. He declared that all the expenses involved by the charges were incurred at the request of, and with the approval of, superior officers in the prohibition department.

State officials this afternoon indicated that Gibson's dismissal would be based upon alleged:

"Studied dissimulation to his superior officers, deliberate attempt to embarrass Governor Donahy and Commissioner McDonald and prevent arrival at the truth in the governor's investigation, improper personal and official conduct and other charges."

In the meantime, the governor continued his secret questioning of persons regarding the charges that Mrs. Ruth Farrell was employed by state dry agents in an effort to lure Marshal Nutt, Westerville, into violating dry laws by furnishing her with liquor.

No clue was available today concerning the whereabouts of Mrs. Farrell, who disappeared a day or two before the governor began his probe.

"Connie" Talmadge Will Take Another Fling at Matrimony

BURLINGAME, Cal., Feb. 27.—Constance Talmadge, buoyant screen actress and said to be the typical American girl, will have her second real fling at matrimony today when she weds Alstair William Mackintosh, wealthy scion of a Scottish family, here this afternoon at the home of Jean De St. Syl, Burlingame millionaire.

The veteran of hundreds of screen weddings, "Connie" by her own admission, is "so thrilled" by the impending ceremony that she is "numb."

The event does not leave her sister Norma unaffected—not by any means. For as the prospective bride and bridegroom signed the "papers" at Redwood City yesterday, the dainty Norma confided that she, too, was thrilled. In fact, "thrilled to death."

When applying for their marriage license, Miss Talmadge gave her age as 25 and her future husband said he was 36.

Captain Mackintosh has never been married before.

Two More Arrests In Ohio Probe of Liquor Syndicate

CLEVELAND, Feb. 27.—Two more St. Paul, Minnesota railroad men were formally arrested here this afternoon by George Goldin, operative of the intelligence unit of the treasury department, in connection with the grand jury probe here of the nationwide $140,000,000 rum syndicate. The men were Alexander McCool and Edmund Coy. Both were brought here from St. Paul for questioning first.

In default of $5,000 bail each, the men were lodged in the Cuyahoga county jail. Their hearing was set for March 10.

Their arrests made a total of fifty taken into custody thus far in connection with the rum ring investigation.

Woman, Bequeathed $100,000, Faces Trial On Murder Charge

WHEELING, W. Va., Feb. 27.—Mrs. Jessie Hoge, who was bequeathed a $100,000 estate by Nathan Bell, aged Irishman, for whose death she has been indicted, will appear in court this afternoon for a trial date on the first degree murder charge of poisoning Bell. Mrs. Hoge is said to be a spiritualist.

pneumogastric nerve—which runs from the stomach to the brain, up through the neck, back of the great blood vessel, and should never endure pressure.

IT TOOK a great war and then several years of deep thought to persuade an intellectual red tape war department to permit soldiers to wear comfortable collars.

The Sam Browne belt was copied from England at once. Foolish official vanity took care of that.

No wonder it takes the army and navy a long time to make up its mind that flying machines amount to something. If the army had been in charge it would still be riding in hansom cabs, with the taxi as a "junior branch" of the hansom cab department.

IT APPEARS that when the great Milton was not writing in the name of Cromwell, and in powerful Latin, letters threatening the pope, or writing in rolling sonorous English, about Lucifer, that "sun of the morning," or about Eve listening to the queer snake that stood erect on the tip of its tail, the author of Paradise Lost was dealing in London real estate with his father and making money.

THAT'S not surprising. There is only one kind of intelligence. Making money is the least difficult and the least important of its many occupations.

Voltaire who could write the "Philosophical Dictionary," upset the decisions of brutal courts that tortured men and women, and tear down the worthless French kings from their thrones, could also make money.

He made it in grain deals, and he could have been a great art dealer. He selected pictures and books with excellent taste.

The Russian Empress Catherine was wise when she bought furniture, books, everything in her house.

Widow of President Harrison Robbed; Servant Arrested

NEW YORK, Feb. 27.—Mrs. Benjamin Harrison, widow of President Harrison, was robbed of jewelry by one of her maid servants, who was held in a cell today after the jewelry was found in her possession. The gems included several pieces that Mrs. Harrison prized. When they were discovered to be missing, Mrs. Harrison summoned detectives. They arrested Anna Bernhardt, 22, and recovered the articles.

CREST OF RIVER'S RISE IS REACHED

Crest in the Ohio river, which threatened a flood stage as a result of recent rains, was recorded at 3 o'clock this morning when the 26.5 feet mark was reached.

Cold weather, which developed yesterday, checked the rampage. At 12 o'clock today the water had dropped to the 25-foot stage and was receding at the rate of about two-tenths of a foot an hour.

The river is virtually free of ice. The big gorge, which has formed at Franklin, was not moved by the high water.

VALENTINO HURT IN AUTO WRECK

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 27.—Rudolph Valentino, handsome "sheik" of the screen, had a narrow escape from death today when his automobile in which he was traveling from San Francisco to Hollywood, skidded on a curve and was wrecked against a telephone pole at San Luis Obispo.

Valentino was thrown 15 feet to the roadside of the highway bordering the highway and received bruises and cuts from broken glass.

None of the cuts are believed to be serious, reports from the scene of the accident stated.

Find Copy of Luther's Bible.
CHEMMITZ, Germany, Feb. 27.—A copy of Martin Luther's Bible, dated 1534, was discovered here today by Herr Eller, a collector. The value of the well-thumbed volume is considerably enhanced by numerous marginal notations in the great reformer's own handwriting.

Has Radio Waves in New Harness

L. William Skala, Chicagoan, discoverer of a device whereby, it is claimed, radio transmission on the same wave length can be separated, making it possible for several stations to use the same wave, is being deluged with rich offers for the manufacturing rights. He is a Bohemian by birth, educated in Prague.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Feb. 27.—While recoveries were staged in a number of important stocks at the beginning of today's session, weakness was pronounced in the bulk of the industrial and specialty stock leaders and new losses in some of these stocks aggregated 5 points.

The Nickel Plate railroad stocks were firm on reports that the members of the Interstate Commerce commission were preparing their majority report approving the merger of the Erie, Pere Marquette and other roads comprising the proposed greater Nickel Plate system. Specialties and motor stocks continued under pressure. The latter including Willys Overland common and Chrysler.

General Electric sold down to 342 for an additional loss of 7 points, completing a decline of 44 points on the movement. Few of the market leaders duplicated their opening prices, the decline from which was gradual but pronounced. The oils opened irregularly and values of the best known stocks in this group were fractionally below Friday's close.

The advance of the first Liberty 3 1/2 to a new high for 1926 at 101 3/32 was a feature of the listed bond market today.

Industrial and railroad bonds were steady in fairly active trading with prices changes narrow. Katy Pacific 5s sold at 94 1/2, Missouri Pacific 4s at 67 1/2, Chesapeake & Ohio convertible 5s at 67 1/2, Erie convertible 5s at 83 1/2.

Despondent Woman Attempts to Drown Self and Two Tots

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—Because she feared her husband, a photographer working in Detroit, was going to get a divorce, Mrs. Marguerite L. Dickey, 29, attempted to drown herself and her two small sons, Billy, 5, and Charles, 3, by leaping into the Tidal basin here with the children.

She succeeded in taking the youngest child into the water with her, but Billy broke and ran away after a struggle. The mother and other child were saved by passing government employees.

Mrs. Dickey took a taxicab to the foot of Seventeenth street by the John Paul Jones statue, paid the driver and dismissed him. Walking along the basin she seized Charles, threw him far out in the water, unsuccessfully tried to throw Billy after him, and then leaped in herself.

At the emergency hospital, it was said both would recover.

St. Alban's Golf Club in New York Destroyed by Fire

NEW YORK, Feb. 27.—The St. Alban's Golf club in the borough of Queens was destroyed by fire which started in the club kitchen early today. The damage, including golf clubs and other possessions in the lockers of the club's 150 members, was estimated at $100,000. The building, a two-story frame structure, was burned to the ground.

CHESTER FLOOR TEAMS TRIMMED

Wellsville Scholastic Passers Chalk up Double Victory.

Chester high basketball teams were handed a double defeat last night, losing to Wellsville high squads in games played on the Rock Springs park floor. The boys lost by a score of 20 to 16, while the girls were swamped by their rivals, score 25 to 8. The games were witnessed by a large crowd.

The contest between the boys was hard fought and held the interest of the fans until the end. The locals owe their defeat to inability to locate the basket as they missed numerous shots. Wellsville, on the other hand, made most of their chances to score.

Campbell started the game by tossing a field goal. Simcox tallied on a foul. Scholl scored the first field goal for Wellsville on a shot from the center of the floor. Calhoun scored a double marker on a shot from under the basket. Campbell evened the score with a point from the free line. Calhoun scored a field goal and later made good on a foul. Scholl tossed in a foul as the first period ended with Wellsville leading by a score of 8 to 4. Dickey opened the second period with a field goal for Wellsville. Hunter scored a foul. Campbell went to forward in place of Simcox and Bartley went to the guard position vacated by Campbell. Campbell scored twice on free throws. Calhoun kept his team out in front with two free tosses. Miller got a foul for Chester. The half closed with Wellsville out in front, score 13 to 7.

Chester staged a rally in the third period and came within two points of evening up the score. Dickey scored the first point on a foul. Campbell scored on a field goal and a foul and a minute later shot another two pointer through the hoop. When the period was over Wellsville had a two point margin.

Calhoun pried open the final period with a foul goal. Hunter then scored a field goal for the visitors. Miller kept Chester in the running with a field goal. Calhoun made another basket for Wellsville and Hunter tallied on a free throw. Campbell made the final field goal of the game for Chester.

Calhoun, Scholl and Hunter were the leading performers for Wellsville, while Campbell, Miller and Hinds started for Chester.

The girls' game resulted in an easy victory for Wellsville who led from start to finish. Hogenmiller, Orr and Moore, did the best work for the visitors, while Skinner, McCoy and Bloor performed well for Chester.

NEW QUARTERS FOR AUTO CLUB

County Organization to Move to Sixth Street Building.

Headquarters of the Columbiana County Motor club, now located at 129 West Fifth street, will be removed to the Loomis building, West Sixth and Dresden avenue, next Monday.

The motor club had secured a long term lease on a suite of two rooms on the second floor of the Sixth street side of the structure. Secretary E. M. Diehl, who will be in charge, announced that the club will conduct a touring bureau.

District meetings at which directors will be elected for the year beginning March 1, will be held within the next two weeks.

Pastors to Fill Pulpit.

Pastors will be in charge of services tomorrow in their respective churches. Sunday school will be held at the usual hour, while the members of the Young People's societies will assemble prior to the evening preaching services.

NOTICE!

The Hancock County Building and Loan Association of Chester, W. Va., has just completed the installation of their new bookkeeping system.

This system is operated by the new Burroughs' bookkeeping machine and is one of the most up-to-date systems for Building and Loans on the market. All books are now ready for delivery having been posted to date.

We hope that with the use of this system that the delays in handling the books at interest periods will be eliminated.

Another Home Broken Up

Family To Be Separated Because Home Maker Grew Despondent

Tragedy Averted Just in Time by Fortunate Discovery of the Housewife.

When Mrs. Lewisohn began to realize what was the matter in her home she concluded all the trouble she had was her own fault. Let her tell you about it.

"Things began to go wrong in our home about a year ago. My husband and my two children seemed to demand entirely too much, and I grew irritated all the time. My children got afraid to bring their troubles to their mother, and I repulsed my husband whenever he tried to get back to the old comradeship. My housework became such a burden I neglected it, and the children came home only at meal times, while my husband made every excuse he could to stay down town.

"Things got so bad I frequently had terrible outbursts of anger and we had so much unpleasantness that my husband finally told me that we would have to separate. That of course, made me worse. Sometimes I seemed possessed of a demon. I didn't realize it was my physical condition that was responsible for all the trouble until one day I felt so low spirited I went to the druggist and asked for something to make me sleep. Instead he persuaded me to take a three months' course of World's Best Treatment for $5.00.

"I didn't realize that was what I needed, but he was right. He explained to me that those glands that gave me energy and strength were slowing up, and that my nerves were crying out for relief. He told me every woman ought to keep up her magnetism and charm through these glands and that when they failed it would change anyone's disposition. I found out he was right, for when I had about a month's treatment the troubles in our home disappeared. I returned my husband's love and the children took their rightful place. I tell you World's Best Treatment saved our home, and I strongly urge all unhappy women to go to Carnahan's drug store or to Brannan's at Wellsville, and get this wonderful rejuvenator."

Civil War Hero Comes Home to Die After 35 Years in Honduras Exile

After 35 years exile in Honduras, Edward A. Burke, one time Confederate hero and treasurer of Louisiana, is preparing to return home to die. Nineteen indictments charging him with embezzlement of state funds were quashed that he might come back to his native countryside for his last days. He now is 80 years old.

EEL WALLS FORBIDDEN BY LAW, SUSQUEHANNA RIVER TRADE LAGS

HARRISBURGH, Pa. — With the new Pennsylvania fish law, in effect since the first of the year, a flourishing industry of the past 75 years along the Susquehanna river, has vanished. Eel fishing, by the use of walls in the river, is no longer permissible under the laws of the state. The walls, built in the river from one bank to another caught the eels during the fall of the year when they started their annual migration to warmer waters.

After each spring flood season in the river, it was necessary to rebuild the walls. This was done during the summer when the water was at its lowest. The first rise after Sept. 1 usually brought the run of eels and a catch of a ton from one wall was not unusual in one night.

Q. Has the former Kaiser an income from Germany? M. M.
A. Prussia, in liquidating his claims as the former king, granted him 300,000,000 gold marks in cash, 180,000 acres of land, 3 Berlin palaces and other real estate.
Q. Has an estimate ever been made of the number of electric signs in New York City? A. S.
A. A census published by the New York Edison Company shows that on Broadway and the rest of Manhattan below 155th street, there are 12,228 electric signs, using 1,121,223 lamps. Restaurants lead in the number of signs, followed by barber shops. Theatres rank seventh.

Q. What is the purchasing power of the dollar at present compared with a pre-war dollar? F. G.
A. The Monthly Labor Review says that the purchasing power of the dollar in June 1925 taken on a 1913 basis is 57.6 cents.
Q. What is the most sensitive part of the body? S. C.
A. Authorities say the Adams apple is the most sensitive spot on the human body. Pressure with both thumbs at this point is almost unendurable, while a sharp blow there will paralyze the power of speech and interfere with breathing and swallowing to a degree that is torture.

Q. Why does oil smoke? W. T. K.
A. Oil smokes when it is being partially consumed, that is, the carbon which is about one-half of what the oil contains, is not being burned at all, due to insufficient oxygen.
Q. Why do we call twenty a score? M. B.
A. Primitive man counted by his fingers and toes, which numbered twenty, and when the objects to be counted exceeded that he made a mark or score in the dirt or on some object, and began again on his fingers and toes. Hence twenty came to mean such a mark or score.

Q. What is the function of the United States Bureau of Education? S. E. G.
A. The Bureau of Education surveys the fields of education, conducts conferences of problems in education through field trips and lectures by staff specialists, publishes bulletins and leaflets on education, maintains the largest exclusively educational library in the world, promotes an annual

American Educational Week, bringing public attention to the schools and their needs, promotes adult education, communicates directly with school administrators and officers of educational institutions who seek information or advice, and administers a system of 85 schools for the natives of Alaska, with an enrollment of 3912 pupils.
Q. Why do vessels go around Cape Horn instead of taking a short cut through the Straits of Magellan? A. C. M.
A. Though Magellan Strait is generally free from shoals and other obstructions, its west portion is subject to impetuous currents and to rough and squally weather, rendering the passage unsafe for sailing vessels. This is the reason they generally pass around Cape Horn.

Q. Or what and how is bannock made? W. C.

A. As made in Scotland, bannock was made of oatmeal, barley-meal, or pease-meal, baked on an iron plate or griddle over the fire.

CLOSED GRANGE
SESSIONS RULING

The lecture hour in subordinate granges will not be closed as has been reported, according to those in authority, but Mark Borton, master of Pomona Grange, has announced that the lecture hour in this grange will be a closed session. This matter was discussed at the meeting of Pomona Grange held last Saturday, and while many believed it referred to a closed lecture hour in subordinate granges, the decision of Mr. Borton has only to do with Pomona grange.

"Hereafter the fifth degree session of Pomona grange will be a closed session at all times," announced Lecturer W. A. Morris of Elkton Saturday. "The master of Pomona Grange has no jurisdiction over the lecture hour of subordinate granges," Mr. Morris declared.

SUIT INSTITUTED
AGAINST COUNTY

The county commissioners have been made defendants in an action just filed in common pleas court by J. H. and John J. Freyfogel, doing business as Fryfogel Bros., who seek a judgment for $2,500 from the county for the wreckage of a threshing machine the morning of August 15 last.

In the petition filed in common pleas court the plaintiffs relate that the road at the foot of Deer Creek hill on the Beloit and North Georgetown road was not wide enough at the culvert at the foot of the hill, and that the threshing machine in passing over the highway at this point was ditched and wrecked.

SEEK DISSOLUTION OF PARTNERSHIP

Dissolution of partnership and an accounting is sought in a petition filed in common pleas court by Arthur Cameron, owner of the Thomas Cameron farm in Knox township, against W. B. Stevenson of Sebring and E. A. Stevenson of Pittsburgh, Pa.

The plaintiff and defendants were partners in the drilling and producing of oil on certain leases on farm lands in Knox township, and the plaintiff in his petition recites that he had contributed money to the partnership, whereas the defendants had put only $239.06 into the treasury, he alleged.

Judgment Rendered.
Judgment by default for $4,030.07 has been rendered in common pleas court against John and Tony Colan of Salem in an action filed against them by Martin L. Bates.

Judgment Sought.
A judgment for $140 is sought in a petition filed in common pleas court by the Garden City Gummed Paper company against the Oriental Stores company of Salem.

Divorce Granted.
Permanent alimony in the sum of $50, which is to be paid within 30 days and an order that the defendant pay the plaintiff $5 per week for the support of minor children is contained in the decree for divorce granted Audrey Kelmman, a minor, who, through her next friend, sued her husband, Jacob Kelmman, for divorce.

This case was heard before Judge Fred H. Wolf.

CHURCH MEMBERS TO BE VISITED

Officers of the Second Presbyterian church have been maturing plans and are ready to put into operation a system of visitation of the congregation. The field has been divided into districts and the men into groups of three. The idea is that of a social call for the general good of the church with the purpose to bring about a more intimate cordiality and acquaintance among members of the congregation.

BURN MORTGAGE ON PARSONAGE

Burning of the mortgage on the parsonage of the Second United Presbyterian church was held Wednesday night. Dinner was served at 6:30 to members of the congregation and friends. Social time was enjoyed and several short addresses made. Feature of the program was the exercises of the Young Women's Missionary society under the direction of Mrs. F. B. Chambers.

To Hold Special Meets.

Rev. J. Lloyd McQueen, pastor of the Boyce Methodist Episcopal church, announced today that a series of evangelistic meetings would open in the church on March 24. They will continue until April 11.

Clothes Washed
Faster and Cleaner

Think of it! Here is a washing machine that will wash your clothes faster than you can rinse, blue and hang the preceding load on the line.

And not only that, the ABC Double A will not harm them, but quickly washes out every speck of dirt and grime. This is the washer you have been waiting for, hoping for. And now it is ready for you at our store.

You need this new washer

During this special Introductory Sale we are making special terms so that every housewife in our city may immediately take advantage of this new washer. Payments so small and easy you will never miss them.

Now you can have the washer you have been wanting so long. And today is the day for you to decide.

Liberal terms all this week

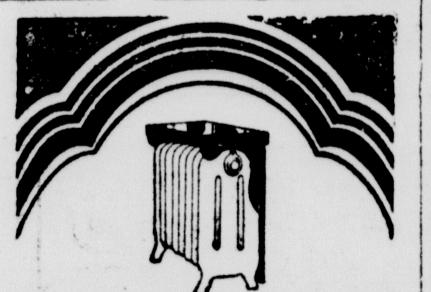

Come and see it—it's a wonder. Or, if you can't come in, phone us and we will tell you all about it and give you the full and complete details of our easy-payment plan. But whatever you do, act at once, for we have only a limited quantity of these new machines to offer on our liberal terms. Act now.

We will offer some wonderful inducements for a washer campaign for the month of March. Watch for our ad or call us now.

Highs Capture Thrilling Clash With Akron City Champions

Land 32-24 Decision In Final Home Battle With Central Passers

Come From Behind in First Period to Knot Count With Visitors and Break 17-17 Deadlock at Half to Win; Lorah Juggles Lineup in Last Two Periods, Permitting Second String Players to See Action.

THE boys over in Akron this morning ran a speculative finger over their map to a big spot along the Ohio river called East Liverpool, the home of pottery ware and basketball teams, their surprise and questioning turn of mind being occasioned by the decisive 32 to 24 defeat handed Akron Central, the Rubber City scholastic champions for 1926, here last night by Lorah's Blue and White in a clash that fittingly climaxed a great season.

With Captain Tom Pusey, just recovering from a severe illness and hardly in fit condition to meet the speed that was demanded, enacting the role of Spartan as he strove valiantly to stay in the game for the field goals that he knew were necessary, and with Center "Teke" Bough out of the contest in the last half as a result of an over abundance of personal fouls, the East Liverpool combine, small and light in comparison to the bulk and height of the Summit countians, hung on like a blue ribbon bulldog, and outscored and outplayed the visiting champions.

The contest packed thrills from the first whistle to the last and traveled with a zip in between as the locals, after a bad start, trailing by four or five points in the first five minutes, began to filter through the Akron defense, gradually crept up on the Rubber City champs as field goal and foul contributed point after point and finally knotted the count at 9 to 9 in the second period; battled the visitors to a 17-17 standstill at the half and then ran off with the game in the third and fourth periods.

Game Packed With Thrills.
The eyes of one of the biggest crowds of the campaign were glued to the scene from start to finish. To look away for a second or so would have been to lose the thrill of a flashy pass, a sensational bit of floor work, a great shot under the basket by Wilson or Hamilton, a long heave by Forward Frye, or the Akronites, that threatened the basket; for with such things were last night's game packed to the brim.

Prior to the engagement the visiting floormen lined up across mid-court and gave a sensational exhibition of long range shooting which failed to arouse any great degree of enthusiasm among home followers. It boded no good for the Blue and White.

When they took to the floor against the local lads they handled the ball with grace and accuracy and for a few minutes after the beginning of hostilities looked like a sure thing. They ran up a nine to four score before Lorah's proteges had gotten fairly warmed up. But Wilson and Hamilton stepped into the breach and from then on the gap began to narrow until it had disappeared altogether. A foul by Hamilton made it 9 to 5, a field goal by Wilson and another by Hamilton made it 9 to 9. Akron counted on a foul and sank a basket to jump to 14 and a field goal by Wilson gave the home crew 11. The locals then closed up the gap altogether and the two teams went neck and neck to the half way post when the count stood 17-17.

Score 16 Points Each Half.
The Potters rolled up 16 points in the first half and made as many more in the two windup periods while the visitors' performance dropped off considerably. Two field goals and three fouls, or a total of seven points all told constituted their net profit for the half.

Coach Lorah juggled his lineup constantly in order to keep the team at peak efficiency and he got results. Pusey went into the clash in the first half, although really not in condition to play and was forced to leave. He came back again in the second half and stuck it out to the end, netting

MEET SALEM FIVE IN CRUCIAL TILT

Lorah's high school passers tonight will tackle Salem at Salem in the crucial contest of the county scholastic basketball race.

A large crowd of local followers will leave on the 5:30 Y. & O. car for the north county scene of battle.

YANKS HOLD LEAD IN NET TOURNAMENT

NEW YORK, Feb. 27.—Out in front by a margin of one match as a result of their victory in the doubles yesterday, William Tilden and Vincent Richards were to meet René Lacoste and Jean Borotra this afternoon in the final matches of the American-French indoor tennis series.

Tilden meets Lacoste and Richards faces Borotra. The Americans' used only one more victory to win the series.

Lacoste and Brugnon, the French doubles team, pushed Tilden and Richards to the limit yesterday before succumbing. The match went to five sets, the scores being 4-6; 6-2; 8-10; 6-1; 7-5.

ILLINI RELAYS UNDER WAY TODAY

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Feb. 27.—A brilliant field, including several world's champions, was ready to toe the mark this afternoon in the ninth annual indoor relay carnival of the University of Illinois.

Horrors! Yank Rook Writes Poems; What Will Huggins Say?

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Feb. 27.—Great excitement reigned in the Yankee camp today over discovery of the fact that Roy Chesterfield, one of the rookie pitchers, writes poetry and is proud of it. The discovery came when one of Chesterfield's poems appeared in a local newspaper. The Yankee Athletics today were waiting to see if Huggins would force Chesterfield to give up the practice, inasmuch as he has forbidden Benny Bengough to play the saxophone.

RADIOLA'S LAND CLASS CONTEST

Radiola basketball team of the M. E. church defeated the Atwater Kent five, 39-24, as the feature event of an entertainment last night at the church. Both squads were made up of members of the Power class.

KENNEDY VICTOR IN SEMI-FINAL

By the narrow margin of three balls Jimmy Kennedy defeated Clarence Moore in the semifinal elimination round of the city cue tournament last night at the Liberty parlors. The score was 75 to 72.

There were frequent runs of 14 by both contenders. With the score 72-72, Kennedy captured the ivory and ran off the necessary points.

STEWART TOPS RIFLE SHOOTERS

The East Liverpool Rifle club held its weekly shoot last night at the power house.

H. Stewart had high score on single target off hand, with R. Buzzard second. The scores: Stewart 50, R. Buzzard 49 out of 50, Culler 48, Bucky McClelland 47, Chris Raber 46, Doc Jones 45, C. Jacobs 44, Sam Miller 33, H. Raber 38. The next shoot will be held March 5. Visitors will be welcomed.

Greb Loses Title Out of Ring, Say Critics

With no Suggestion of Old Dash and Spirit, Pittsburgher Takes Terrible Shellacking in First Three Rounds; More of an Opera Bouffe Than Prize Fight, With Only Hitting With Flatirons Barred.

By DAVIS J. WALSH.

NEW YORK, Feb. 27.—Well, punch me for a ticket, if the man didn't bite the dog, after all.

This great human interest story, for which the newspaper profession has waited with bated breath for these many years, "broke" at Madison Square garden last night. Almost from the beginning of time, dogs have been biting men, to the accompaniment of three acute lines on an inside page. Almost as long as memory runneth not to the contrary, Harry Greb has been beating opponents and the lethargy has been frightful.

But there must be an end to everything, and last night Harry Greb finished second to Tiger Flowers, the colored gentleman from Atlanta, and while he was about it, he made the job a thorough one. The decision carried with it the world's middleweight title.

Some of the merry wits seemed to think Greb was short-changed but that idea was all to the fore. Flowers got the decision and he earned it. He fought a courageous, if not a sensational fight and outscored Greb in the majority of exchanges.

Greb Dead on His Feet.

It was more of an opera bouffe than a prize fight, with clowning and rough stuff at a premium. Nothing was barred except hitting with flatirons. Greb was the worst offender and also the worst fighter. He couldn't lick the flap of an envelope last night.

When a champion loses, it is customary to explain the phenomenon with a glib statement to the general effect that he has seen better days. It went in this case, anyhow.

Greb was dead on his feet to start the fight, coming out for the first round like a man who has just been courtously tapped behind the ear with an anvil. Flowers simply murdered him without a comeback, and if the colored man had had a real punch, we would have been treated to the spectacle of a famous champion being knocked out in the first round.

Greb Peps Up in Fourth.

Hardened ringsters stared in amazement as Greb, with not even a suggestion of his speed and fighting spirit, took a terrible shellacking through the first three rounds. Flowers couldn't miss with his left. Starting with the fourth, it seemed that Greb had fought himself out of whatever was the matter with him and he carried what fighting there was to Flowers with something of his old spirit. He took the fourth, sixth, seventh and eighth rounds clearly enough but somehow, the thing lacked conviction. He couldn't muster any part of his old dash.

Flowers, meantime, had carried the fifth and ninth and never was far behind the pace at any time. Greb came back to take the tenth and eleventh rounds but this was his last gesture.

DOCTORS tell you that a man is "as old as his arteries." That refers to the average man, who is usually old too soon. His chances depend on the condition of his arteries. If they have hardened, lost elasticity and therefore check the flow of the blood, creating what is wrongly called "blood pressure," since it is really artery pressure, then his days are short.

But with the man that grows old normally the question is not about the arteries, but rather about the whole working machine.

FOR the right kind of man drifting toward what is called "old age," the knees and the ankles indicate the physical condition.

If a man of 50 or 60 finds it painful to "squat down on his hunkies" and is unable to struggle to his feet again without using his hands on a chair or on the edge of a bath tub, then old age is overtaking him.

If a man tries to skate as he did in his boyhood and his ankles ache and turn over and his knees lack electricity, then he is growing old.

If a man raising his arms up straight in the air bends forward, drawing in his stomach, keep his knees stiff, and finds that he cannot go down to the floor with his finger tips, that is the beginning of old age.

YOU have seen pictures of Henry Ford skating and dancing old-fashioned dances.

He puts on his skates for himself, no protruding stomach about his makeup.

Between Henry Ford's head and his feet there is no accumulation of unnecessary fat, no embolism to prevent facing his own shoes.

In old age, beware of fat. Eat carefully, exercise regularly, never violently.

Watch your joints. They will regain their flexibility if you do not stop using them. Walk, run, stoop down, bend over, but do nothing violently, when you are past 40 years old.

THERE is another kind of stiffness that has nothing to do with the joints and that stiffness is in the brain.

In most of us the brain hardens early, like a concrete mixture, and ceases to receive new impressions. The hardening process begins with the average young man well to do, when the comes out of college; with the average poor man, a little after he has settled down to making a living.

We all keep on breathing, eating; some of us keep on exercising. Not one in a hundred keeps on thinking.

If you keep your brain exercised, all of its "joints" working easily, you are to be envied even though your knees get stiff, your stomach big, your arteries hard and your ankles weak.

AT LAST American soldiers are no longer to be suffocated in hot weather and choked all the year round by idiotic, stiff cloth uniform collars that have hitherto cramped their necks and interfered with the action of the

Milk and Its Uses In The Home

A safe, abundant milk supply is recognized as an important factor in our national welfare.

The booklet "Milk and Its Uses in the Home" which this Bureau is offering free to its readers discusses milk as a food from the point of view of the consumer, and shows why it is exceptionally important in the diet of children and a valuable food for adults. Suggestions for the care and use of milk are also included, as well as directions for pasteurizing it at home.

WEST VIRGINIA ABANDONS PLAN TO EXTRADITE LAURA CHRISTY

Prosecutor Withdraws Order for Disinterment of Body.

LAST CHAPTER

"Strictly an Ohio Case," is Decision at Conference.

West Virginia today abandoned its threatened attempt to extradite Mrs. Laura E. Christy, 48, East Liverpool, alleged self-confessed slayer of two of her eight husbands during her 30-year matrimonial career.

Declaring it was "strictly an Ohio case," Prosecuting Attorney Thomas E. Hoffman, of Weirton, at noon, announced that the body of John Ebert, 50, Newell, W. Va., pottery worker, who was the seventh husband of Mrs. Christy, will not be disinterred. The body of Ebert, who died on Nov. 7, last, is buried in Locust Hill cemetery, near Chester.

Last Chapter of Story. As a result of this decision, reached at a conference in which Coroner George A. Arner of Chester and Dr. J. B. Abouse of New Cumberland, county physician, participated, Mrs. Christy, who, according to police, confessed that she administered arsenic to Rev. William Christy, 56, her eighth spouse, who died on Jan. 13, last, will remain in the Ohio State Hospital for the Criminally Insane at Lima.

"We have no actual case against Mrs. Christy," said Prosecutor Hoffman. "I understand she made a confession to the Ohio authorities. If there is evidence of any crime, it is in the hands of the Columbiana county officials. However, West Virginia believes the woman is mentally incompetent, and we decided it would be a useless expense to bring her to trial."

Action by the Hancock county authorities probably means the end of the Christy poison case, for, according to Dr. Charles H. Clark, superintendent of the Lima institution, the alleged "woman Bluebeard" will not be released unless a writ of habeas corpus is issued by a common pleas judge. This statement was made by Dr. Clark after he recently said that she "has no acute mental disorder but is feeble minded."

Mrs. Christy was adjudged insane by the Columbiana county probate court and committed to the state hospital on Jan. 21.

Fifty Power Class Members Guests at Dinner in Church

Members of the Power class of the First Methodist Episcopal Sunday school were entertained at a banquet in the social rooms of the church at 6 o'clock last evening. Fifty members of the class and their guests were present.

W. R. Phillips, James R. Meek and W. C. Todd, former teachers, made brief talks. History of the class was given by Lawrence Patterson. Other speakers included Dr. Frank G. Fowler, church pastor; C. R. Boyce, teacher, and William T. McNutt.

Following the banquet, the class went to the gymnasium where they witnessed basketball and volleyball games played by picked teams. The Power class, which is made up entirely of young men, has an enrollment of about 150.

COUNTY BOY SCOUT COUNCIL CAMP WILL BE ESTABLISHED ON JUNE 14, PROBABLY NEAR LISBON

A Boy Scouts' camp will be established in Columbiana county this summer, according to a decision reached by the camp committee of the Columbiana county council at a meeting in Lisbon last week.

The site has not been selected, although a location about four miles north of Lisbon is the probable choice. The camp probably will open on June 14 and continue about eight weeks.

GRAND JURORS AWAIT CALL IN BRUTAL MURDER OF TROY WOMAN

Developments in Death Mystery Temporarily at Standstill.

ARREST EXPECTED

Coroner Will Return Official Verdict Before Night.

TROY, O., Feb. 27.—Mrs. Frances Drake Nesbitt, 26, pretty Ohio State university co-ed, whose body, only partly clad, was found in the bathtub of her home here February 10, was murdered by a person or persons unknown who used a weapon not yet been determined. Coroner G. J. Hance declared here today in his official verdict following the inquest early this week.

TROY, Feb. 27.—Developments in the Troy murder mystery were temporarily at a standstill today while officials conferred on the next move in the attempt to solve the murder of Mrs. Frances Drake Nesbitt, 26, Ohio State university graduate.

With the grand jury in readiness to convene and return an immediate indictment all clues were being sifted today for the most promising evidence.

Coroner Hance was to return his official verdict today. It was generally believed this would be the mere statement that the woman met her death at the hands of a person or persons unknown.

Officials today were silent as to developments last night, but it is known that they conferred far into the night and reviewed testimony given at the coroner's hearing. The essential points of new statements to officers were also being pieced together.

An early arrest was expected. Alva B. Campbell, former county prosecutor, has been named a special assistant to Prosecutor L. E. Harvey, and was working with him today on the evidence to be presented to the grand jury when it convenes.

J. C. B. BEATTY LOSES COURT CASE

Judgment for $66.65 by default has been rendered by Municipal Judge J. C. Hanley against J. C. B. Beatty, in the suit brought by the Liberty Engraving company of Pittsburgh. The action was to have been heard yesterday but Beatty failed to appear. The money was claimed to be due on a half tone portrait furnished Beatty about a year and a half ago, when he opposed Governor A. V. Donahey for the Democratic nomination for governor.

HERE ARE RULES FOR CONTEST

Entrants must be at least 50 years of age, and residents of the district within a radius of 20 miles of East Liverpool.

They must play old time music and limit this program to from five to seven minutes.

They must appear any night during the week of March 8, upon notification.

Three judges are to select the best player each evening, and this player is to return on the evening of the grand finals (Date to be announced later) at which time the champion and the second and third best player will be chosen and the prizes awarded.

All entrants must accept the final decision of the judges.

The coupon appearing in the Review-Tribune must be used by entrants.

Midland Men Held For Grand Jury on Gambling Charge

Thomas Smith and Robert H. Harris, colored, charged with maintaining a gambling house at 342 Midland avenue, Midland, were held for grand jury action under $500 bond upon preliminary arraignment last night.

Twenty-nine persons were arrested Thursday night when Midland police raided a pool room and barber shop conducted by the two men. Smith was arraigned before Justice A. P. Finnegan, while Harris was taken before Burgess Charles McNeill. The other men captured in the raid were released upon payment of $5 fines.

Money, dice, cards and gambling devices were seized by the police.

One question for each day is provided. The parent will find it interesting and helpful to have the child take up the question each day and aid it in finding the answer in the Scriptures, thus developing a knowledge of the Bible and where to find it in the things decided. Send or bring the little folks to the class Sunday at 1:45 p. m. The "Ceramic Cafeteria Auditorium," 121 West Fifth Street, questions for this week are:

219. Does the Bible say that he went to heaven?
Answer: No.

220. What does it say?
Answer: He died and was gathered to his people. See Genesis 25:8.

221. Who were "his people"?
Answer: Heathen.

222. Was the promise to "bless all families and nations" fulfilled in Isaac and Jacob?
Answer: See Hebrews 11:13.

223. Since a dead man cannot own land or bless any one, how is Abraham to have part in blessing "all families and nations"?
Answer: See John 5:28, 29. Revised Version.

224. Will the resurrection of the ancient worthies be "to life" (perfect life) or "to judgment"?
Answer: They are to get "a better resurrection" than the world in general and be "made perfect" (Hebrews 11:35, 40; consequently it will be to perfect life.

225. Did God "bless all families and nations" before Christ's first advent?
Answer: See Amos 3:2; Ephesians 2:11, 12.

EVE'S TWO LOVERS

By EDGAR POE NORRIS

EIGHT
This Jimmy Lochinvarian thought of John Ingate's death in the moment of his birth. The gleam in his eyes faded. No, he couldn't do that. . . . It wasn't, he decided, because he lacked the nerve. She had chosen, and he must abide.

These faint bells tolled on, and now they sounded more ominous to him. "You mustn't trouble yourself," Eve replied at last.

"Oh, it will be a pleasure—you know that," he responded, intensely. She smiled. "Oh! WILL IT?"

He was impelled to laugh. "You know what I mean."

"You're awfully kind."

He sat down and phoned his sister. "Come down immediately. I have something for you to do. . . . Never mind, hurry down."

He didn't want to explain, and he couldn't, anyway, with Eve listening. "Women know about these things," he said apologetically, when he put up the receiver.

"Oh, I'm afraid you are going to too much trouble." She was ashamed. She did want a lovely wedding.

"Now you are to go home and take a nap. You'll need to be fresh and all that. Run along." He was good humoredly commanding in tone.

"Those letters—"

"Never mind about the letters. Holiday today."

Backache making you miserable?

YOU can't be happy when every day brings you lameness, torturing backache and sharp, stabbing pains. Why not find the cause and correct it? Often it's weak kidneys. If you suffer annoying kidney irregularities, too—feel tired, nervous and worn out, use Doan's Pills. Doan's have helped thousands. Are endorsed here at home. Ask your neighbor! Here's an East Liverpool Case:

Mrs. C. C. Wells, 777 Fenton St., says: "My back ached like toothache and I couldn't rest after I went to bed. I couldn't straighten when in a stooped position. My kidneys bothered me and I felt badly all over. Doan's Pills from the Anderson Drug Store relieved me."

"I wish you wouldn't say anything to the persons around here before it happens. Clay—"

"I won't. Shoo! Run along!" She went, touched. How kind and thoughtful he was. . . . She could see how he felt. His eyes, as always, revealed him. She felt a pang.

Josephine came into her brother's office frowning. She didn't like to be summoned so summarily as this.

"Listen, sis, be a good chap and help me," he explained, in a tone which, remembering how he had acted at the breakfast table, puzzled her.

"Eve MacLure is being married today. The poor girl hasn't anyone to see to things, and I want it staged properly. It's to be at the Brick church downtown. Now while I run around and see the rector and arrange for music and choir boys, and then have the florist rush up some palms and rubber plants and century plants, you see what you can get hold of in the way of a wedding dress. You know her size. Take it out and put it on her. The wedding is to be at 2 o'clock."

Josephine was regarding him from over a stiffening jaw.

"Come on, be a good fellow and do this for me, and I'll give you that extra thousand you want for the ball, even if I have to hook my auto."

"Aren't you afraid your interest will be misunderstood?"

He gave her a glance of annoyance. "No one with any sense could misunderstand. . . . Will you do this."

"I suppose I'll have to."

He ignored this as he arose and took his hat. "I'll call you at MacLure's in two hours to see how you're getting along."

A little later in the morning Mrs. Henry Clay Wales wearily climbed the steep stairs in her home and pounded on the door of the bedroom occupied by her son. "Clay! CLAY!"

Something resembling an answer came from within.

"Do you know what time it is? I called you an hour ago." She opened the door and saw the figure of her son hunched in bed.

"I'm not going to work today." He did not open his eyes. He did not want to meet the glance he knew was upon him.

"Why not? Are you sick?"

"No, mother. I'm just not going to work today. I have some business to attend to this afternoon." A moment he dreamed was upon him. He wondered if there was not some way to escape it, to postpone it.

Mrs. Wales studied her son. She got the impression he didn't want to look at her. Was there something he didn't want her to know? A thought flew into her mind. . . . "Clay have you lost your job?" Apprehension was in her voice.

"No, mother, No," he responded, irritated.

Again she studied him for a moment then, as if satisfied, she started to turn away. "Why didn't you tell me you weren't going to work today, so I wouldn't have to yell my tongue out, and keep your breakfast in the oven until it's burned to a cinder?"

"I'm sorry," he said, turning over.

Clay Wales had the habit of emptying the pockets of his clothing upon the dresser each night, and neatly hanging up his trousers. The eyes of Mrs. Wales, as she turned toward the door, fell upon the stuff mirrored upon the dresser.

"Why, Clay, what are you doing with so much money?"

Oh, damn! He had forgotten, he suddenly realized, to put the money out of sight. He might have known she would be in here snooping. Feverishly he searched his mind for an explanation—anything but the truth.

Mrs. Wales went over, picked up the roll of bills, and began to count. Clay leaped out of bed and grabbed the money from her hands. "Mother, why must you always be—oh, is it fair to come in here snooping?"

She recoiled before the intensity of his exclamation. "Why—?" Now her intuition told her something WAS wrong. A thousand ideas swept upon her simultaneously.

"Clay, what has happened. Clay, tell me!"

For a moment his tongue was locked, then he impulsively decided

EAST LIVERPOOL—AMERICA'S POTTERY CENTER

A. FEBRUARY 27, 1926.

Exodus From Pool Rooms

If the anti-gambling warning issued by Mayor Ralph C. Benedum and his service-safety director, John W. Moore, is heeded, there should be an exodus of hangers-on from pool rooms in East Liverpool today.

Fifteen operators of pool and billiard parlors were given an "Obey the law, or your license will be revoked" ultimatum yesterday at a conference at city hall, when the executive announced that he proposed to eradicate all suspected gambling places in the city.

The order means that pea pool, high pill and other games said to be common in pool rooms are tabooed. And if proprietors and managers of these public places co-operate with the police department in enforcement of the edict there will be fewer complaints from wives and mothers who claim their husbands and sons spend no small part of their time and earnings in games of chance.

There is no unfairness about the mayor's plan. He has explained the law, warned that violation of it means arrest of the offender and revocation of his permit. And if the pool room owner who has winked at gambling and other infractions of the law in the past is wise, he will make an honest effort to clean up.

Farm Science In Turkey

Remarkable progress is being made in Turkey, along lines that Americans will approve. Mustapha Kemal, though he has been "snooty" to other powers, is proving himself the wisest ruler that his country has had for many generations. His agricultural improvements alone would mark him as an enlightened leader.

The feudal system that prevailed under the sultans, which made the people serfs at the mercy of overlords, is abolished. The Turkish farmers now own their land as the Russian peasants do. And they are making more rapid progress than the Russians, under President Kemal's guidance.

Scientific farming is the big thing now in Turkey. The president himself operates an experimental farm near Angora, his "goat capital." There is a department of agriculture modeled after our own, which distributes information and seeds and encourages the use of tractors and other modern machinery. His department of education has established 13 agricultural schools, now teaching 2,000 students, and is sending students to farm colleges in Europe and America. The principal effort of the Turkish government seems to be centered in a 10-year program for the intensive production of cotton, sugar, wheat and tobacco.

Turkey, the "sick man of Europe," is recovering his health, and may yet teach agriculture to Asia.

Still Building

The great national building boom goes on, in spite of prophecies that would have ended it long ago. Last year, when there were more automobiles made and sold than ever before, the building industry surpassed the motor industry by a billion dollars, showing that with all our love for new sedans, we love new homes still more. The building permits so far this year suggest greater activity than ever.

No doubt the statisticians have been right up to this extent—the "building deficit" of war time has been made up, and more. But it is no longer a question of providing enough housing for families, businesses and industries according to pre-war standards. There are new standards now.

People do not merely want a house to live in. They want a better house than they ever had before. Likewise with the office and factory. Old buildings are abandoned and modern ones go up.

It looks sometimes as if, before this movement dies down, the whole country will be rebuilt. At any rate, the new construction will roll on in tremendous volume as long as prosperity lasts. And it will gain new impetus from every "real estate boom," because when people buy land they start thinking about building on it.

Over-Education

A young man in Brooklyn, N. Y., who finished high school with honors, is arrested for committing robbery. Whereupon the judge expresses the opinion that the trouble in his case was probably "over-education."

From what has been said of the superficial and lackadaisical attitude of high school and college students in recent years, it almost sounds like a compliment.

The offender in this case may plead guilty to robbery and get away with it. But if he pleaded guilty to "over-education," he would be unmercifully guyed—and deservedly so.

Whatever education he gained in school evidently failed to educate his morals, and so proved its deficiency. But on the purely mental side, his education must have been sadly lacking.

Any well educated person would know that robbery is deliberate warfare against society, that society is organized to protect its property, and that no individual can expect to buck the social organization and get away with it. As some of his less privileged but more experienced fellow-convicts would put it, he should know beforehand that "crime don't pay."

"There is enough anthracite coal in this country to last 100 years," reports a geologist. At the present rate, it should last at least a thousand.

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY

By O. O. McINTYRE

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 27.—We went yachting today to visit the Cocolob Cay club on a little island built along a strip of Florida keys. These islands were originally patches of mangrove trees in coral formation. The mangrove is a tropical tree growing out of the water and ultimately forming an impenetrable mass.

Into these roots is pumped dirt which is the basis of much valuable Florida real estate. The club has 27 members, beautiful lawns and clubhouse and several homes for week-end guests. President Harding spent several days as a guest fisherman. In the club guest book I saw among recent Broadwayites Irving Berlin and Marc Connelly.

There was a New England preacher in our party, but he thawed out our natural reserve with a few lively and, of course, proper yarns which set Kin Hubbard, Frank Shuts and Bill Hogg going with some not having quite so much delicacy in shading. Invariably I have found preachers excellent company.

Fish were dipped out of a trap before us and prepared for the luncheon. I saw a poisonous eel, and talk turned to deadly insects of the tropic. One lady told of a scorpion's bite paralyzing a woman's tongue for a week. Several husbands inquired significantly where they might be found.

The centipede is seen here now and then as is the tarantula. But there are no records of deadly insect bites during the past five years. Nor have we been plagued by the mosquito. But there is a bull fly who awakens me every morning with his loud buzz.

Our host was Webb Jay, of Chicago, who owns a yacht and 30-foot houseboat. The yacht is the most expensive of all modern luxuries, but they are common here. The all-year upkeep, considering the few times they are used, is many thousands. People tire of yachts quickly. They seem nice to own merely as something to refer to casually when company comes.

I was awakened this morning by a loud hubbub down stairs, and had dozed off when a sudden yank landed me on the floor. Mike Hogg had arrived unexpectedly and without warning from Texas. He completed the awakening by pulling me under the shower and drenching me—palmas and all. I am glad the preacher had not yet joined the party.

Joe Cook, incidentally, has an excellent bit of shower bath foolishness in a Broadway revue. He explains his invention of a shower bath which his bathers may stand under with his clothes on, receive a bath and emerge with clothes completely dry. He calls for two foils from the audience. They are placed in the baths, the curtain drawn and the showers turned on. They emerge soaking wet. "I guess I overestimated my ability," remarks Cook blandly.

Miami has a glass-bottomed boat—like those going to Catalina Islands—touring Biscayne Bay and the outer harbor daily. One may see at first hand some of the mysteries of the sea. Nowhere is the survival of the fittest so pronounced as here. The strong rule the weak and the fight of life is an incessant battle against terrific odds. Seamen are always held in a spell by the ocean's treacherous cruelty.

There has grown up in America a derisive attitude toward the civic boosters. Babbity they call it. A few sophisticated magazines, edited by horn-rimmed intellectuals whose vice virtues consist of drinking tea in fancy house robes, have actually placed a certain stigma on the hustling go-getters. Florida is an answer to the scoffers. The state has flourished chiefly because of civic boosters. A large proportion of Americans believe that because a man wears white socks and a snap tie in a suit, he is a nitwit. Eccentrically in many cases their ancestors came over in wooden shoes and shawls in the steerage.

R.W. Frazer Essays Role of Indian in Booking at Ceramic

Robert W. Frazer, talented motion picture star, is authority for the statement that the most difficult impersonation he ever has been called upon to make, either on the speaking stage or for the screen, is that of the coldly impassive, vengefully taciturn and silently plotting Indian—the Indian who is far above the average of that race in intelligence and education.

This is the role Mr. Frazer pictures in the latest of the Harold Bell Wright novels to be adapted for the screen, "The Mine With the Iron Door," the newest of Mr. Wright's popular stories, and which in the short time since publication has run into the enormous sale of total of more than two million copies.

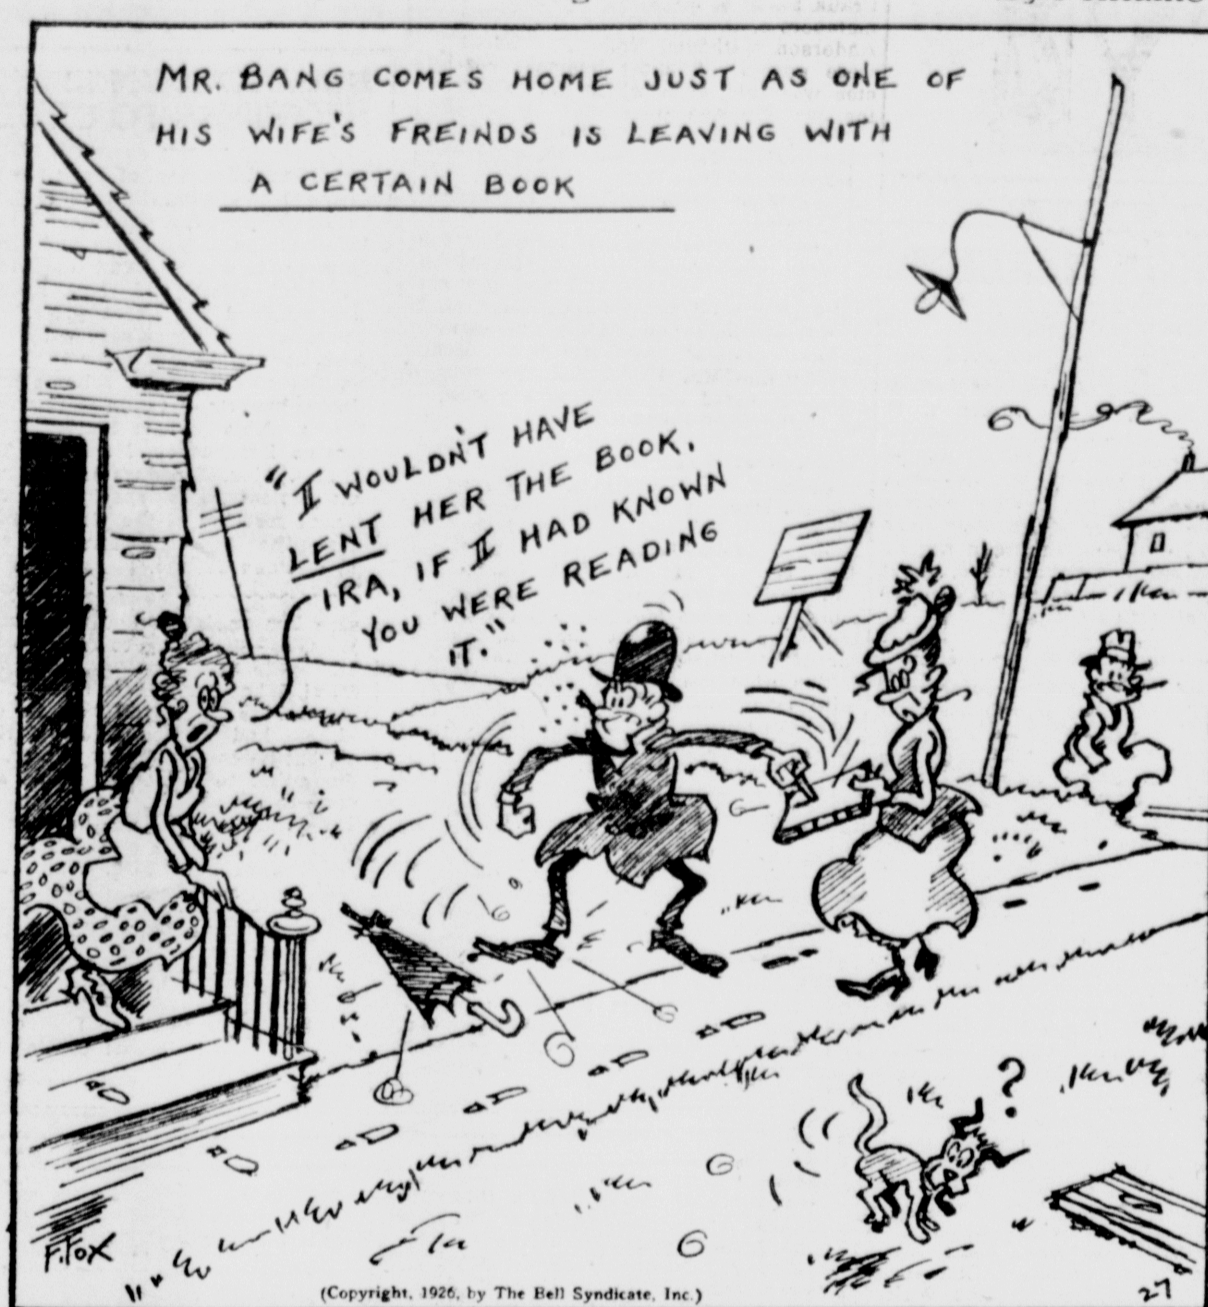

"The Mine With the Iron Door," a Sol Lesser production for Principal Pictures Corporation, and directed by Sam Wood, has been booked as the chief attraction for Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday at the Ceramic theatre. The picture follows faithfully the text of the Wright story and the principal scenes were filmed on the exact spots described by the author, the settings being in the Catalina mountain country near Tucson, Arizona.

Frazer plays the part of Natachee, an Apache Indian, and thus rounds out a stage and screen career that is remarkable in its range. This star was born at Worcester, Mass., and in his early youth turned to the stage. He had important parts in "Ben Hur," "The Wanderer," "The Mirage," and "Thy Name is Woman." Next came the screen, and Frazer did exceptional work in such pictures as "Fascination," "Jazzmania," "When the Desert Calls."

The Terrible Tempered Mr. Bang—

By Fontaine Fox

HASKIN'S LETTER By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

The Sense of Taste.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 27.—There was once a man with a sense of taste so delicate that, so it was claimed, he could detect a 100,000 solution of quinine. He was a German physiologist named Valentin. Tradition has it that his son carried this remarkable sensory development several steps further. He insisted that he was able to taste castor oil when it was being administered to his little sister, and it made him so ill that he found it extremely difficult if not impossible to down his own dose.

Children the world over and for all time have agreed that castor oil tastes perfectly awful and most of them, with many grown-ups in addition, will contend that the taste of this medicine is so distinctive and so pronounced that no highly cultivated sense of taste is required to determine that.

Accordingly there will be general interest in the pronouncement of an English authority, Prof. D. F. Harris, to the effect that castor oil has no taste whatever!

Castor oil of all kinds is virtually tasteless, he asserts, and it is its nauseating odor that makes it so offensive, and it is only necessary for a child to hold his nose, or have it held for him, in order to be able to take the medicine without the slightest disagreeable sensation. An American commentator suggests, however, that it is also well to blindfold the child, as many a youngster has been known to have a fit at the very sight of the castor oil bottle.

This comment, intended to be humorous by implication, is accepted gravely by scientists who say it is worthy of serious consideration because the nerves of taste, of smell, of sight, of touch, of heat and cold are all involved in what we call tasting any food or drink, or medicine. Frequently we refer to something as having a delicious flavor, meaning taste, when as a matter of fact it is its aroma that has delighted us, or the "smooth" way it has passed over the tongue and on down that has given us the gratifying sensation. Even the sight of a thick, juicy, well-cooked beefsteak will make a hungry man's mouth water, and it is a well-established fact, or is so contended, that no one can play a saxophone or a cornet if someone is squeezing a lemon within the range of his vision.

Many persons find it impossible to speak of persimmons without puckering up their mouths, the hypochondriac can bring on an attack of acute indigestion by merely thinking of his favorite anathema in the way of food, and everyone has known the individual who is absolutely certain he does not "like" this or that article of food although he has never eaten it.

Not So Complicated. All this points to the conclusion that the sense of taste is extremely complicated, but the scientists say that this is not true, for all the things that we eat or drink have only four or five distinct tastes, or flavors, to use a term commonly used but not scientifically correct. Most authorities agree there are but four tastes—sweet, salt, sour and bitter—but Prof. Harris adds a fifth, alkaline, or soapy. What we generally understand as different tastes are complex experiences made up of odors, motor experiences, pressure and pain sensations, and visual elements in addition to these fundamental elements.

Who would believe, for instance, that roast turkey, roast beef and roast horseflesh all taste alike, or, in fact, have practically no true taste at all? Who would believe that in determining what we like to eat and drink we are guided by the nose more often than by the palate?

Who would not hoot at the suggestion that he could not distinguish between the taste of a potato and an apple? Nevertheless the English expert not only suggests this, but asserts that he has seen a person, blindfolded and required to "hold his nose," who was unable to tell which was which as between a raw potato and a raw apple that was neither sweet nor sour to a marked degree. As a matter of fact, he says, an apple must be either sweet or sour, and what we call its "taste" is its odor, which is perceived before the fruit is taken into the mouth at all and is accentuated when a bite is taken and chewed.

"Several sensations are aroused by the eating of an apple," he continues. "There is the contact with its solid substance; this is mediated by the nerves of touch or contact in the tongue, gums, cheeks, and palate. Then there is the sensation of sweet-ness if the apple is ripe; then the sensation of cold, especially if the fruit has been in cold storage; and, lastly, there is the smell, or odor, of it, popularly called 'the taste.'"

Another Test for the Skeptical.

Another test for the skeptical which it is promised will disconcert all those who think they know everything about the sense of taste can be made if sweet potatoes and chestnuts are available. A blindfolded person, so the assurance is given, will find it absolutely impossible to distinguish between the taste of baked sweet potatoes and boiled chestnuts. Trying this out is suggested for an otherwise dull evening when the radio is not interesting or there is too much static.

Also it is to be noted that when a person has a bad cold in the head and says that as a result he has lost his sense of taste, he is all wet, to borrow an expression from the slangsters of the day. His true tastes are still intact, but the nasal congestion, preventing the ascent of air from the mouth, has temporarily cut off his sense of smell.

"The pleasure we derive from eating is largely olfactory," says Prof. Harris. "Our enjoyment of the flavor of roast meat, wine, tea, cheese, and fruits all depends on our sense of smell. Indeed, so many of the staple articles of our food are devoid of tastes and flavors that we add all sorts of flavorings and seasonings to make them more interesting. Take the case of a milk pudding; if the va-lilla and sugar have been left out, how utterly insipid the rice or the tapioca becomes!

"We speak of a person having a delicate palate; we really mean he has an acute sense of smell. The attraction of wine for connoisseurs is in its flavor or bouquet. Alcohol has no taste in itself; it is neither acid nor alkaline, sweet, bitter, nor salt. Beer is bitter from hops, an inferior port from annie acid. Pure alcohol has an irritating effect.

"Few foods are in themselves sour—buttermilk is an exception—few are salt, few are soapy or bitter. Hence the addition of so many accessories to food—salt, flavors, relishes, condiments, herbs, and the like."

It will doubtless be a revelation to those who think they like limburger cheese for its taste to learn that in reality they like it for its smell. Those who are certain they do not like it will be comforted to know why—it is not because their sense of taste has not been properly cultivated!

ROTARIANS' LADIES' NIGHT PARTY AT COUNTRY CLUB ON MARCH 30

Lowell Patton and His Artists of Portland, Ore., Will Feature Program at Dinner.

Members of the Rotary club will entertain their wives and friends at a "Ladies Night" party at the Country club on Tuesday evening, March 30.

A musical program will be featured by Lowell Patton and his artists of Portland, Ore. Dinner will be served at 6 o'clock, a dance following. The committee in charge of arrangements includes J. M. Wells, J. W. Irwin and J. A. Bryan.

Lowell Patton, dramatic interpreter, composer and pianist, will be assisted by his brother, Gault Patton, baritone, and Ludovic Hoot, lyric tenor. Lowell Patton was chosen as pianist with the famous Flying Squadron a few years ago, playing in most of the principal cities of the country. He has appeared with the Royal Purple orchestra of Portland, and was accompanist for Frances Soule, harpist, and later for Frances Ingram. He went to London and Paris for a further course of study in 1923.

The program to be offered by the three artists is known as "a musical prologue, six episodes and an epilogue." The episodes are Russian, old fashioned, religious, popular, oriental and patriotic. The program consists of folk songs, classical and popular melodies, folk dances of the various periods, religious chants and sacred classics, character songs, old time melodies, ballads, old time and modern war songs, piano songs and piano solos.

Calcutta Grange Program.
An old time program will be presented by the senior members of the Calcutta Grange at their meeting in the grange hall on March 2. It follows:
Song—"Dearest Me"—Chorus.
"What My Grandparents Ate and Wore"—C. Q. Gonzales and E. N. Hickman.
"Church Services of Ye Olden Days"—Clarence Azell.
Song—Selected—Chorus.
"How I Took My Best Girl"—C. A. Wollam.
"An Old Time Sledding Party"—J. H. Knepper.
"Are People Happier, Healthier and Better Than in Our Grandparents Day"—T. D. Huston.
"A Tale of Long Ago"—Frank Rudolph.
Song—Chorus.
"My First Recollections of Calcutta"—Mrs. Charles Calvin.
"Recreation Stunt"—Raymond Huston.

An old-fashioned lunch will be served by the social committee.
All junior members are urged to be present.

"Do It Electrically"

Housecleaning time is a good time to install

Convenience Outlets

How often you've wished you had some more places to connect new lamps, or the electric heater, or your curling iron or the vacuum cleaner! Why not make it really convenient to use all your electrical appliances by installing an extra convenience outlet in every room. The work can be done quickly and with little bother at housecleaning time.

Some Suggestions—

A convenience outlet near your bed; at the side of the dresser; in the bathroom; in the guest room; in all halls (for vacuum cleaner); under dining table (cord to pass through seam in carpet); near kitchen cabinet; in laundry; in garage.

Get an estimate of cost from any of the local electrical contractors. They will gladly take care of your wants in this line.

DRY CHIEFTAIN WILL DISMISS PROBE WITNESS

Agent H. C. Gibson
Will be Let Out, is Intimation.

ACCUSED PROPST Charged Assistant Com- missioner "Rehears- ed" Testimony.

COLUMBUS, Feb. 27.—State Prohibition Commissioner McDonald has decided upon the dismissal next Monday of H. C. Gibson, state dry agent, it was intimated at the office of Governor Donahay this afternoon.

Gibson is the man who charged Assistant State Prohibition Commissioner Propst with improper conduct and said he overheard Propst to lure Marshal Harry Nutt, Westerville, into violating dry laws by furnishing her with liquor.

Gibson, it was stated, has received his salary in full up to the end of this month and his name dropped from the prohibition department's payroll.

Charges Filled.

After receiving summons from Propst requesting his appearance before McDonald next Monday to answer charges of alleged improper conduct, Wilson went to McDonald's office today and demanded that a date and place be fixed for a public hearing. Gibson turned down McDonald's invitation that he go into another room immediately and face his accusers, members of the departmental staff.

Charges preferred against Gibson included allegations of improper conduct in hotels at Portsmouth, Toledo and other places, and turning in improper expense accounts.

Accused Denies Allegations.

Gibson today insisted that he was not guilty of these charges. He declared that all the expenses involved by the charges were incurred at the request of, and with the approval of, superior officers in the prohibition department.

State officials this afternoon indicated that Gibson's dismissal would be based upon alleged:

"Studied dissimulation to his superior officers, deliberate attempt to embarrass Governor Donahay and Commissioner McDonald and to bring disrepute to the truth in the governor's investigation, improper personal and official conduct and other charges."

In the meantime, the governor continued his secret questioning of persons regarding the charges that Mrs. Ruth Farrell was employed by state dry agents in an effort to lure Marshal Nutt, Westerville, into violating dry laws by furnishing her with liquor.

No clue was available today concerning the whereabouts of Mrs. Farrell, who disappeared a day or two before the governor began his probe.

"Connie" Talmadge Will Take Another Fling at Matrimony

BURLINGAME, Cal., Feb. 27.—Constance Talmadge, buoyant screen actress and said to be the typical American girl, will have her second real fling at matrimony today when she weds Alstair William Mackintosh, wealthy scion of a Scottish family, here this afternoon at the home of Jean De St. Cyr, Burlingame millionaire.

The veteran of hundreds of screen weddings, "Connie" by her own admission, is "so thrilled" by the impending ceremony that she is "numb."

The event does not leave her sister Norma unaffected—not by any means. For as the prospective bride and bridegroom signed the "papers" at Redwood City yesterday, the dainty Norma confided that she, too, was thrilled. In fact, "thrilled to death."

When applying for their marriage license, Miss Talmadge gave her age as 25 and her future husband said he was 36.

Captain Mackintosh has never been married before.

Two More Arrests In Ohio Probe of Liquor Syndicate

CLEVELAND, Feb. 27.—Two more St. Paul, Minn., railroad men were formally arrested here this afternoon by George Goldin, operative of the intelligence unit of the treasury department, in connection with the grand jury probe here of the nation-wide $140,000,000 rum syndicate. The men were Alexander McCool and Edmund Coy. Both were brought here from St. Paul for questioning first.

In default of $5,000 bail each, the men were lodged in the Cuyahoga county jail. Their hearing was set for March 10.

Their arrests made a total of fifty taken into custody thus far in connection with the rum ring investigation.

Woman, Bequeathed $100,000, Faces Trial On Murder Charge

WHEELING, W. Va., Feb. 27.—Mrs. Jessie Hope, who was bequeathed a $100,000 estate by Nathan Bell, aged Irishman, for whose death she has been indicted, will appear in court this afternoon for a trial date on the first degree murder charge of poisoning Bell. Mrs. Hope is said to be a spiritualist.

pneumogastric nerve—which runs from the stomach to the brain, up through the neck, back of the great blood vessel, and should never endure pressure.

IT TOOK a great war and then several years of deep thought to persuade an intellectual red tape war department to permit soldiers to wear comfortable collars.

The Sam Browne belt was copied from England at once. Foolish official vanity took care of that.

No wonder it takes the army and navy a long time to make up its mind that flying machines amount to something. If the army had been in charge it would still be riding in hansom cabs, with the taxi as a "junior branch" of the hansom cab department.

IT APPEARS that when the great Milton was not writing in the name of Cromwell, and in powerful Latin, letters threatening the pope, or writing in rolling sonorous English, about Lucifer, that "sun of the morning," or about Eve listening to the queer snake that stood erect on the tip of its tail, the author of Paradise Lost was dealing in London real estate with his father and making money.

THAT'S not surprising. There is only one kind of intelligence. Making money is the least difficult and the least important of its many occupations.

Voltaire who could write the "Philosophical Dictionary," upset the decisions of brutal courts that tortured men and women, and tear down the worthless French kings from their thrones, could also make money.

He made it in grain deals, and he could have been a great art dealer. He selected pictures and books with excellent taste.

The Russian Empress Catherine was wise when she bought furniture, books, everything in her house.

Widow of President Harrison Robbed; Servant Arrested

NEW YORK, Feb. 27.—Mrs. Benjamin Harrison, widow of President Harrison, was robbed of jewels by one of her maid servants, who was held in a cell today after the jewelry was found in her possession. The gems included several pieces that Mrs. Harrison prized. When they were discovered to be missing, Mrs. Harrison summoned detectives. They arrested Anna Bernhardt, 22, and recovered the articles.

CREST OF RIVER'S RISE IS REACHED

Crest in the Ohio river, which threatened a flood stage as a result of recent rains, was recorded at 3 o'clock this morning when the 26.5 feet mark was reached.

Cold weather, which developed yesterday, checked the rampage. At 12 o'clock today the water had dropped to the 25-foot stage and was receding at the rate of about two-tenths of a foot an hour.

The river is virtually free of ice. The big gorge, which has formed at Franklin, was not moved by the high water.

VALENTINO HURT IN AUTO WRECK

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 27.—Rudolph Valentino, handsome "sheik" of the screen, had a narrow escape from death today when his automobile in which he was traveling from San Francisco to Hollywood, skidded on a curve and was wrecked against a telegraph pole at San Luis Obispo.

Valentino was thrown 15 feet to the roadside of the railway bordering the highway and received bruises and cuts from broken glass.

None of the cuts are believed to be serious, reports from the scene of the accident stated.

Find Copy of Luther's Bible

CHEMNITZ, Germany, Feb. 27.—A copy of Martin Luther's Bible, dated 1534, was discovered here today by Herr Eller, a collector. The value of the well-thumbed volume is considerably enhanced by numerous marginal notations in the great reformer's own handwriting.

Has Radio Waves in New Harness

L. William Skala, Chicagoan, discoverer of a device whereby, it is claimed, radio transmission on the same wave length can be separated, making it possible for several stations to use the same wave, is being deluged with rich offers for the manufacturing rights. He is a Bohemian by birth, educated in Prague.

Despondent Woman Attempts to Drown Self and Two Tots

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—Because she feared her husband, a photographer working in Detroit, was going to get a divorce, Mrs. Marguerite L. Dickey, 29, attempted to drown herself and her two small sons, Billy, 5, and Charles, 3, by leaping into the Tidal basin here with the children.

She succeeded in taking the youngest child into the water with her, but Billy broke and ran away after a struggle. The mother and other child were saved by passing government employees.

Mrs. Dickey took a taxicab to the foot of Seventeenth street by the John Paul Jones statue, paid the driver and dismissed him. Walking along the basin she seized Charles, threw him far out in the water, unsuccessfully tried to throw Billy after him, and then leaped in herself.

At the Emergency hospital, it was said both would recover.

St. Alban's Golf Club in New York Destroyed by Fire

NEW YORK, Feb. 27.—The St. Alban's Golf club in the borough of Queens was destroyed by fire which started in the club kitchen early today. The damage, including golf clubs and other possessions in the lockers of the club's 150 members, was estimated at $100,000. The building, a two-story frame structure, was burned to the ground.

Death Roll

Charles De Long, Jr., Funeral services for Charles De Long, 10 years old, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles De Long, Sr., who died at the home below Kenilworth as a result of scarlet fever, were held this afternoon in the Arner funeral home, Carolina avenue, Chester. Rev. Lulu Kell, pastor of the Newell Nazarene church, was in charge. Burial was made in Locust Hill cemetery.

Homer H. Smith, Deceased, who was born at Painesville, is survived by one son and two daughters: Stillman Smith, Pittsburgh; Mrs. F. H. Hood, Pittsburgh; and Miss Eunice Mae Smith, at home; two brothers, D. N. Smith, Chicago; C. C. Smith, this city, and one sister, Mrs. R. S. Palmer, Painesville.

Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon in the Sturgis funeral parlors, West Fifth street. Burial will be made in Riverview cemetery.

Friends can view the body at the Sturgis funeral parlors tonight and Sunday.

WOMAN AND MAN SHOT TO DEATH

CHICAGO, Feb. 27.—Clad only in a bathrobe, Mrs. Rose Brown, 35-year-old divorcee, and part owner of the Brownstone hotel here, was found shot to death here today together with her business partner, Archibald McCully, 45, in a locked room of the hotel.

Mrs. Marie Rockwell, a sister of Mrs. Brown, found the bodies, each with a bullet hole in the middle of the temple, after a search for Mrs. Brown when the latter did not appear at her desk as usual this morning.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Feb. 27.—While recoveries were staged in a number of important stocks at the beginning of today's session, weakness was pronounced in the bulk of the industrial and specialty stock leaders and new losses in some of these stocks aggregated 5 points.

The Nickel Plate railroad stocks were firm on reports that the members of the Interstate Commerce commission were preparing their majority report approving the merger of the Erie, Pere Marquette and other roads comprising the proposed greater Nickel Plate system. Specialties and motor stocks continued under pressure. The latter including Willys Overland company and Chrysler.

General Electric sold down to 342 for an additional loss of 7 points, completing a decline of 44 points on the movement. Few of the market leaders duplicated their opening prices, the decline from which was gradual but pronounced. The oils opened irregularly and values of the best known stocks in this group were fractionally below Friday's close.

The advance of the first Liberty 34s to a new high for 1926 at 101 3/32 was a feature of the listed bond market today.

Industrial and railroad bonds were steady in fairly active trading with prices changes narrow. Katy adjustment 5s sold at 94 1/2, Missouri Pacific 4s at 67 1/2, Chesapeake & Ohio convertible 5s at 67 1/2, Erie convertible 5s at 83 1/2.

Right of Youth to Mix Sports With Its Studies On Trial

W. Clyde Martin, Scientific Farmer and School Principal, Faces Heresy Charges Before Palmyra, Ind., Church.

PALMYRA, Ind., Feb. 27.—The right of youth to mix sports with its studies and enliven its leisure with recreations, even on the Sabbath, went on trial here today in the little wooden building which houses the congregation of the Church of Christ.

Specifically the defendant was W. Clyde Martin, 40-year-old scientific farmer who until recently was principal of the tiny high school here and now, on the side, operates a community hall which he built at his own expense when his fellow-citizens frowned upon the proposal as "a project of the devil."

Palmyra, sequestered little village of 250 inhabitants among the hills of the Ohio Valley, learned with amazement today that the world at large had its eyes turned this way and that the beliefs of a majority of its simple, deeply religious people were regarded as puritanical, out of step with the times and even contrary to the teachings of Jesus.

Charge Sabbath Law Violation.

Palmyra—at least the larger part of it which belongs to the church—holds just the opposite beliefs. Martin, in forming baseball, basketball and football teams among the students when he was principal of the high school,

Martin was admonished then, and as further punishment he and his "un-Christian activities" were given the stamp of disapproval by the election of another man to his job.

Straightway, undismayed by the cold shoulder turned to the community hall plan he advocated, he built the hall with $3,000 of his own money and three wide open the doors to any of Palmyra or neighboring communities who might choose to come.

Accused Demands Trial.

"He's desecrating the Sabbath and teaching others to do so," said the disapproving elders of the church. A demand was made that he close the community hall. Martin refused. Last Sunday a deacon, asserting that he no longer is in sympathy with the church and the teachings of the Bible, that he has become heretical in his beliefs, that his ideas are too worldly, demanded his expulsion.

Martin demanded a public trial.

The request was granted, the trial set for today. Three judges will be chosen from among the members. Martin has the naming of but one.

"What will you do if the verdict is against you?" he was asked today as he prepared to face his accusers.</

CHESTER FLOOR TEAMS TRIMMED

Wellsville Scholastic Passers Chalk up Double Victory.

Chester high basketball teams were handed a double defeat last night, losing to Wellsville high squads in games played on the Rock Springs park floor. The boys lost by a score of 20 to 16, while the girls were swamped by their rivals, score 25 to 8. The games were witnessed by a large crowd.

The contest between the boys was hard fought and held the interest of the fans until the end. The locals owe their defeat to inability to locate the basket as they missed numerous shots. Wellsville, on the other hand, made most of their chances to score.

Campbell started the game by tossing a field goal. Simcox tallied on a foul. Scholl caged the first field goal for Wellsville on a shot from the center of the floor. Calhoun scored a double marker on a shot from under the basket. Campbell evened the score with a point from the free line. Calhoun scored a field goal and later made good on a foul. Scholl tossed in a foul as the first period ended with Wellsville leading by a score of 8 to 4. Dickey opened the second period with a field toss for Wellsville. Hunter caged a foul. Campbell went to forward in place of Simcox and Bartley went to the guard position vacated by Campbell. Campbell scored twice on free throws. Calhoun kept his team out in front with two free tosses. Miller got a foul for Chester. The half closed with Wellsville out in front, score 13 to 7.

Chester staged a rally in the third period and came within two points of evening up the score. Dickey scored the first point on a foul. Campbell scored on a field goal and a foul and a minute later shot another two pointer through the hoop. When the period was over Wellsville had a two point margin.

Calhoun pried open the final period with a foul goal. Hunter then scored a field goal for the visitors. Miller kept Chester in the running with a field goal. Calhoun made another basket for Wellsville and Hunter tallied on a free throw. Campbell made the final field goal of the game for Chester.

Calhoun, Scholl and Hunter were the leading performers for Wellsville, while Campbell, Miller and Hinds started for Chester.

The girls' game resulted in an easy victory for Wellsville who led from start to finish. Hogenmiller, Orr and Moore, did the best work for the visitors, while Skinner, McCoy and Bloor performed well for Chester.

NEW QUARTERS FOR AUTO CLUB

County Organization to Move to Sixth Street Building.

Headquarters of the Columbiana County Motor club, now located at 129 West Fifth street, will be removed to the Loomis building, West Sixth and Dresden avenue, next Monday.

The motor club had secured a long term lease on a suite of two rooms on the second floor of the Sixth street side of the structure. Secretary E. M. Diehl, who will be in charge, announced that the club will conduct a touring bureau.

District meetings at which directors will be elected for the year beginning March 1, will be held within the next two weeks.

Pastors to Fill Pulpit.

Pastors will be in charge of services tomorrow in their respective churches. Sunday school will be held at the usual hour, while the members of the Young People's societies will assemble prior to the evening preaching services.

NOTICE!

The Hancock County Building and Loan Association of Chester, W. Va., has just completed the installation of their new bookkeeping system.

This system is operated by the new Burrough's bookkeeping machine and is one of the most up-to-date systems for Building and Loans on the market. All books are now ready for delivery having been posted to date.

We hope that with the use of this system that the delays in handling the books at interest periods will be eliminated.

Another Home Broken Up

Family To Be Separated Because Home Maker Grew Despondent

Tragedy Averted Just in Time by Fortunate Discovery of the Housewife.

When Mrs. Lewisohn began to realize what was the matter in her home she concluded all the trouble she had was her own fault. Let her tell you about it.

"Things began to go wrong in our home about a year ago. My husband and my two children seemed to demand entirely too much, and I grew irritated all the time. My children got afraid to bring their troubles to their mother, and I repulsed my husband whenever he tried to get back to the old comradeship. My housework became such a burden I neglected it, and the children came home only at meal times, while my husband made every excuse he could to stay down town.

"Things got so bad I frequently had terrible outbursts of anger and we had so much unpleasantness that my husband finally told me that we would have to separate. That of course, made me worse. Sometimes I seemed possessed of a demon. I didn't realize it was my physical condition that was responsible for all the trouble until one day I felt so low spirited I went to the druggist and asked for something to make me sleep. Instead he persuaded me to take a three months' course of World's Best Treatment for $5.00.

"I didn't realize that was what I needed, but he was right. He explained to me that those glands that gave me energy and strength were slowing up, and that my nerves were crying out for relief. He told me every woman ought to keep up her magnetism and charm through these glands and that when they failed it would change anyone's disposition. I found out he was right, for when I had about a month's treatment the troubles in our home disappeared. I returned my husband's love and the children took their rightful place. I tell you World's Best Treatment saved our home, and I strongly urge all unhappy women to go to Carnahan's drug store or to Brannan's at Wellsville, and get this wonderful rejuvenator."

Civil War Hero Comes Home to Die After 35 Years in Honduras Exile

After 35 years exile in Honduras, Edward A. Burke, one time Confederate hero and treasurer of Louisiana, is preparing to return home to die. Nineteen indictments charging him with embezzlement of state funds were quashed that he might come back to his native countryside for his last days. He now is 80 years old.

After each spring flood season in the river, it was necessary to rebuild the walls. This was done during the summer when the water was at its lowest. The first rise after Sept. 1 usually brought the run of eels and a catch of a ton from one wall was not unusual in one night.

Q. Has the former Kaiser an income from Germany? M. M.

A. Prussia, in liquidating his claims as the former king, granted him 300,000,000 gold marks in cash, 180,000 acres of land, 3 Berlin palaces and other real estate.

Q. Has an estimate ever been made of the number of electric signs in New York City? A. S.

A. A census published by the New York Edison Company shows that on Broadway and the rest of Manhattan below 135th street, there are 12,228 electric signs, using 1,121,223 lamps. Restaurants lead in the number of signs, followed by barber shops. The rank is seventh.

Q. What is the purchasing power of the dollar at present compared with a pre-war dollar? F. G.

A. The Monthly Labor Review says that the purchasing power of the dollar in June 1925 taken on a 1913 basis is 57.6 cents.

Q. What is the most sensitive part of the body? S. C.

A. Authorities say the Adams apple is the most sensitive spot on the human body. Pressure with both thumbs at this point is almost unendurable, while a sharp blow there will paralyze the power of speech and interfere with breathing and swallowing to a degree that is torture.

Q. Why does oil smoke? W. T. K.

A. Oil smokes when it is being partially consumed, that is, the carbon which is about one-half of what the oil contains, is not being burned at all, due to insufficient oxygen.

Q. Why do we call twenty a score? M. B.

A. Primitive man counted by his fingers and toes, which numbered twenty, and when the objects to be counted exceeded that he made a mark or score in the dirt or on some object, and began again on his fingers and toes. Hence twenty came to mean such a mark, or score.

Q. What is the function of the United States Bureau of Education? S. E. G.

A. The Bureau of Education surveys the fields of education, conducts conferences of problems in education through field trips and lectures by staff specialists, publishes bulletins and leaflets on education, maintains the largest exclusively educational library in the world, promotes an annual

American Educational Week, bringing public attention to the schools and their needs, promotes adult education, communicates directly with school administrators and officers of educational institutions who seek information, advice, and administers a system of 55 schools for the natives of Alaska.

Q. Why do vessels go around Cape Horn instead of taking a short cut through the Straits of Magellan? A. C. M.

A. Though Magellan Strait is generally free from shoals and other obstructions, its west portion is subject to impetuous currents and to rough and squally weather, rendering the passage unsafe for sailing vessels. This is the reason they generally pass around Cape Horn.

Q. Of what and how is bannock made? W. C.

A. As made in Scotland, bannock was made of oatmeal, barley-meal, or peasemeal, baked on an iron plate or griddle over the fire.

CLOSED GRANGE SESSIONS RULING

The lecture hour in subordinate granges will not be closed as has been reported, according to those in authority. But Mark Borton, master of Pomona Grange, has announced that the lecture hour in the Pomona Grange will be a closed session. This matter was discussed at the meeting of Pomona Grange held in the Lisbon Grange hall last Saturday, and while many believed it referred to a closed lecture hour in subordinate granges, the decision of Mr. Borton has only to do with Pomona grange.

"Hereafter the fifth degree session of Pomona grange will be a closed session at all times," announced Lecturer W. A. Morris of Elkton Saturday. "The master of Pomona Grange has no jurisdiction over the lecture hour of subordinate granges," Mr. Morris declared.

SUIT INSTITUTED AGAINST COUNTY

The county commissioners have been made defendants in an action just filed in common pleas court by I. H. and John J. Freyfogel, doing business as Fryfogel Bros., who seek a judgment for $2,500 from the county for the wreckage of a threshing machine the morning of August 15 last. In the petition filed in common pleas court the plaintiffs relate that the road at the foot of Deer Creek hill on the Beloit and North Georgetown road was not wide enough at the culvert at the foot of the hill, and that the threshing machine in passing over the highway at this point was ditched and wrecked.

SEEK DISSOLUTION OF PARTNERSHIP

Dissolution of partnership and an accounting is sought in a petition filed in common pleas court by Arthur Cameron, owner of the Thomas Cameron farm in Knox township, against W. B. Stevenson of Sebring, and E. A. Stevenson of Pittsburgh, Pa.

The plaintiff and defendants were partners in the drilling and producing of oil on certain leases on farm lands in Knox township, and the plaintiff in his petition recites that he had contributed money to the partnership, whereas the defendants had put only $239.06 into the treasury, he alleged.

Judgment Rendered.
Judgment by default for $4,930.67 has been rendered in common pleas court against John and Tony Colian of Salem in an action filed against them by Martin L. Bates.

Judgment Sought.
A judgment for $140 is sought in a petition filed in common pleas court by the Garden City Gummed Paper company against the Oriental Stores company of Salem.

Divorce Granted.
Permanent alimony in the sum of $50 which is to be paid within 30 days and an order that the defendant pay the plaintiff $5 per week for the support of minor children is contained in the decree for divorce granted Audrey Kelmman, a minor, who, through her next friend, sued her husband, Jacob Kelmman, for divorce.

This case was heard before Judge Fred H. Wolf.

Champagne Bath for Nude Model at Soiree Denied

Broadway is awash with conflicting reports of a midnight party given by Earl Carroll (inset), producer, in his theater, to welcome the Countess of Cathcart, freed from Ellis Island, to U. S. It is declared that Joyce Hawley, lingerie model, shown above, played the role of nude Bacchante and passed champagne from a bathtub. This Carroll and Miss Hawley deny. "A minister could have attended the party," Carroll avers.

della Barcus and son, Earl, Mrs. Anna Yohst, Violet Earl. The out of town guests were: Mrs. Homer Richey and children, of East Liverpool; Mrs. Mary Loughley, Mrs. Cecil Loughley and daughters, Florence and Mabel, Mrs. Fred Goddard, son Billy, Mrs. Clyde Parham and son, Bobby, of Chester, W. Va.; Mrs. Leishman was the recipient of many gifts.

BOYCE CHURCH MEETS LISTED

Official board of the Boyce Methodist Episcopal church will meet Tuesday night at the parsonage. Prayer meeting will be held Wednesday evening. Cottage prayer meeting will be held Thursday morning at the home of Mrs. Lydia Dailey in Ohio avenue.

UNION REVIVAL MEETS TO OPEN

Union revival meetings will open tomorrow evening in the Presbyterian church of Smiths Ferry. Rev. J. I. Gregory, of West Bridgewater, will preach the initial sermon. The sermon will be given on Monday night by Rev. C. W. Ewing of Chester. His subject will be "Finding Ourselves." Special music will be featured. The following week meetings will be held in the Methodist church.

OFFICIAL BOARD TO HOLD SESSION

Members of the official board of the Pennsylvania Avenue Methodist Episcopal church will meet Tuesday night. Thursday evening the choir will practice and girl scouts will meet. School children's class in religion will assemble Friday afternoon, while church practice and boy scouts are scheduled to meet Friday night.

CHURCH MEMBERS TO BE VISITED

Officers of the Second Presbyterian church have been maturing plans and are ready to put into operation a system of visitation of the congregation. The field has been divided into districts and the men into groups of three. The idea is that of a social call for the general good of the church with the purpose to bring about a more intimate cordiality and acquaintance among members of the congregation.

BURN MORTGAGE ON PARSONAGE

Burning of the mortgage on the parsonage of the Second United Presbyterian church was held Wednesday night. Dinner was served at 6:30 to members of the congregation and friends. Social time was enjoyed and several short addresses made. Feature of the program was the exercises of the Young Women's Missionary society under the direction of Mrs. F. B. Chambers.

To Hold Special Meets.
Rev. J. Lloyd McQueen, pastor of the Boyce Methodist Episcopal church, announced today that a series of evangelistic meetings would open in the church on March 24. They will continue until April 11.

Clothes Washed Faster and Cleaner

Highs Capture Thrilling Clash With Akron City Champions

Land 32-24 Decision In Final Home Battle With Central Passers

Come From Behind in First Period to Knot Count With Visitors and Break 17-17 Deadlock at Half to Win; Lorah Juggles Lineup in Last Two Periods, Permitting Second String Players to See Action.

THE boys over in Akron this morning ran a speculative finger over their map to a big spot along the Ohio river called East Liverpool, the home of pottery ware and basketball teams, their surprise and questioning turn of mind being occasioned by the decisive 32 to 24 defeat handed Akron Central, the Rubber City scholastic champions for 1925, here last night by Lorah's Blue and White in a clash that fittingly climaxed a great season.

With Captain Tom Pusey, just recovering from a severe illness and hardly in fit condition to meet the speed that was demanded, enacting the role of Spartan as he strove valiantly to stay in the game for the field goals that he knew were necessary, and with Center "Teke" Bough out of the contest in the last half as a result of an over abundance of personal fouls, the East Liverpool combine, small and light in comparison to the bulk and height of the Summit countians, hung on like a blue ribbon bulldog, and outscored and outplayed the visiting champions.

The contest packed thrills from the first whistle to the last and traveled with a zip in between as the locals, after a bad start, trailing by four or five points in the first five minutes, began to filter through the Akron defense, gradually crept up on the Rubber City champs as field goal and foul contributed point after point and finally knotted the count at 9 to 9 in the second period; battled the visitors to a 17-17 standstill at the half and then ran off with the game in the third and fourth periods.

Game Packed With Thrills.

The eyes of one of the biggest crowds of the campaign were glued to the scene from start to finish. To look away for a second or so would have been to lose the thrill of a flashy pass, a sensational bit of floor work, a great shot under the basket by Wilson or Hamilton, a long heave by Forward Frye, of the Akronites, that threatened the basket; for with such things were last night's game packed to the brim.

Prior to the engagement the visiting floormen lined up across mid-court and gave a sensational exhibition of long range shooting which failed to arouse any great degree of enthusiasm among home followers. It boded no good for the Blue and White.

When they took to the floor against the local lads they handled the ball with grace and accuracy and for a few minutes after the beginning of hostilities looked like a sure thing. They ran up a nine to four score before Lorah's players had gotten fairly warmed up. But Wilson and Hamilton stepped into the breach and from then on the gap began to narrow until it had disappeared altogether. A foul by Hamilton made it 9 to 5, a field goal by Wilson and another by Hamilton made it 9-9. Akron counted on a foul and sank a basket to jump to 14 and a field goal by Wilson gave the home crew 11. The locals then closed up the rep altogether and the two teams went neck and neck to the half way post when the count stood 17-17.

Score 16 Points Each Half.

The Potters rolled up 16 points in the first half and made as many more in the two windup periods while the visitors' performance dropped off considerably. Two field goals and three fouls, or a total of seven points all told constituted their net profit for the half.

Coach Lorah juggled his lineup constantly in order to keep the team at peak efficiency and he got results. Pusey went into the clash in the first half, although really not in condition to play and was forced to leave. He came back again in the second half and stuck it out to the end, netting

Horrors! Yank Rook Writes Poems; What Will Huggins Say?

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Feb. 27.—Great excitement reigned in the Yankee camp today over discovery of the fact that Roy Chesterfield, one of the rookie pitchers, writes poetry and is proud of it. The discovery came when one of Chesterfield's poems appeared in a local newspaper. The Yankee Athletics today were waiting to see if Huggins would force Chesterfield to give up the practice, inasmuch as he has forbidden Benny Bengough to play the saxophone.

Greb Loses Title Out of Ring, Say Critics

With no Suggestion of Old Dash and Spirit, Pittsburgher Takes Terrible Shellacking in First Three Rounds; More of an Opera Bouffe Than Prize Fight, With Only Hitting With Flat-irons Barred.

By DAVIS J. WALSH.

NEW YORK, Feb. 27.—Well, punch me for a ticket, if the man didn't bite the dog, after all.

This great human interest story, for which the newspaper profession has waited with bated typewriters these many years, "broke" at Madison Square garden last night. Almost from the beginning of time, dogs have been biting men, to the accompaniment of three agate lines on an inside page. Almost as long as memory runneth not to the contrary, Harry Greb has been beating opponents and the lethargy has been frightful.

But there must be an end to everything, and last night Harry Greb finished second to Tiger Flowers, the colored gentleman from Atlanta, and while he was about it, he made the job a thorough one. The decision carried with it the world's middleweight title.

Some of the merry villagers seemed to think Greb was short-changed but that idea was all to the false. Flowers got the decision and he earned it. He fought a courageous, if not a sensational fight and outscored Greb in the majority of exchanges.

Greb Dead on His Feet.

It was more of an opera bouffe than a prize fight, with clowning and rough stuff at a premium. Nothing was barred except hitting with flat irons. Greb was the worst offender and also the worst fighter. He couldn't lick the flap of an envelope last night.

When a champion loses, it is customary to explain the phenomenon with a glib statement to the general effect that he has seen better days. It went in this case, anyhow.

Greb was dead on his feet to start the fight, coming out for the first round like a man who has just been courtously tapped behind the ear with an anvil. Flowers simply murdered him without a comb and, if the colored man had had a real punch, we would have been treated to the spectacle of a famous champion being knocked out in the first round.

Greb Peps Up in Fourth.

Hardened ringsters stared in amazement as Greb, with not even a suggestion of his speed and fighting spirit, took a terrible shellacking through the first three rounds. Flowers couldn't miss with his left.

Starting with the fourth, it seemed that Greb had fought himself out of whatever was the matter with him and he carried what fighting there was to Flowers with something of his old spirit. He took the fourth, sixth, seventh and eighth rounds clearly enough, but somehow, the thing lacked conviction. He couldn't muster any part of his old dash.

Flowers, meantime, had carried the fifth and ninth and never was far behind the pace at any time. Greb came back to take the tenth and eleventh rounds but this was his last gesture.

Rev. Thomas B. Shearer to Deliver Farewell Sermon Sunday Morning

Will Leave Next Tuesday for Newark, Ohio, Where he Will Take Charge of West Side Christian Church.

Rev. Thomas B. Shearer, pastor of the First Christian church, who next week will take charge of the West Side Christian church of Newark, O., will deliver his farewell sermon to members of the local congregation at services tomorrow morning.

Rev. and Mrs. Shearer will leave on Tuesday for Newark.

As a special talk on his final appearance in the local pulpit, Rev. Shearer has selected for his subject, "Wellsville As I See It," in which he will describe his impressions of the city during the six years he has been a resident here.

No successor has been chosen for Rev. Shearer although church officers are in touch with several pastors in the state.

Rev. and Mrs. Shearer, and the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James E. Hamlet, of this city, were honor guests at a reception held by the congregation last night in the church.

A chest of silver was presented to Rev. and Mrs. Shearer and Mr. and Mrs. Hamlet received a large bouquet of flowers. A program of music was carried out by members of the congregation.

On Thursday night members of the Delta Alpha Sunday school class, of which Mrs. Shearer was teacher, held a surprise reception at the home of Miss Mildred Armstrong in Chester avenue. A program of music and other diversions was followed by refreshments.

YELLOW CREEK CHURCH SOCIAL

Arrangements have been completed for the social to be held on Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock by young people of the Yellow Creek Presbyterian church. Rev. K. J. Stewart, pastor, will present an illustrated lecture on "Washington and His Times," consisting of history, biography, romance and story, with 63 colored slides. Music, a social hour and refreshments will conclude the program.

Community singing class is scheduled to meet on Monday evening at 8 o'clock.

Rev. Stewart will preach Sunday at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. His morning theme will be, "Get Right With God," and his evening subject, "Honest Inquiry." Young people will meet at 7:30. The subject will be, "Neglected Areas of the Country." The leaders will be George W. Shaffer and John McCormick.

Rev. Stewart will preach Sunday afternoon at 2:30 in the Long's Run Presbyterian church on the subject, "Get Right With God." Sunday school will convene at 1:30.

A patriotic service will be held in the hall at Calcutta on Wednesday evening, at 8 o'clock. Rev. Stewart will give his illustrated lecture on "Washington and His Times."

REV. ROWE TO GIVE MISSION TALKS

Scheduled for talks in the next two weeks in western pulpits, Rev. W. S. Rowe, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church, will be absent from the local church for two Sundays. He will talk tomorrow at Sterling, Ill., and the following week in Chicago. He will discuss work in the foreign mission fields.

MUSICAL PROGRAM AT U. P. CHURCH

An elaborate musical program has been arranged for the vesper services tomorrow afternoon at 4:45 o'clock in the First United Presbyterian church. Rev. R. W. Ustick will deliver a sermon on "In the Wilderness of Temptation" in connection with the service.

The program follows: Organ prelude, "Offertory in D Minor," Ballade—Mrs. Edith Calhoun.

Quartet, "Fear Not, O Israel," Spicker—Mrs. Elizabeth Burford Baker, Mrs. Pauline Taylor Weinhardt, Rowland Kaufman, W. A. Macdonald.

Tenor solo, "Hear My Prayer," Hamlin—Edward Adams. Duet, "Love Divine," Stainer—Miss Mildred Weaver, soprano; Rowland Kaufman, tenor.

Contralto solo, "Before the Crucifix," Laforge—Mrs. Pauline Taylor Weinhardt.

Offertory, "Melodies," Vice President Dawes—Mrs. Edith Calhoun. Tenor solo, "Hear My Cry, O Lord," Wooler—Rowland Kaufman.

Soprano solo, "How Beautiful Upon the Mountains," F. Flaxington Harper—Miss Mildred Weaver.

Double quartet, "Te Deum in B Flat," Buck—Mrs. Elizabeth Burford Baker and Miss Mildred Weaver, sopranos; Mrs. Pauline Taylor Weinhardt and Mrs. Howard Adams, contraltos; Rowland Kaufman and Edward Adams, tenors; W. A. Macdonald and Wilbur Newman, basses.

Sermon, "In the Wilderness of Temptation," Benediction.

Organ postlude, "Allegro Maestoso," Dubois—Mrs. Edith Calhoun.

CARMEL McCOWN, GROCER, IS DEAD

The body of Carmel McCown, former Wellsville grocer, who died Thursday afternoon at Rocky Glenn sanatorium, McCownsville, where he had been a patient for two years, arrived in Wellsville this morning. No announcement as to funeral arrangements had been made up until noon today.

Mr. McCown was born in Congo, W. Va. He spent a large part of his life in this city, operating a grocery store near Ninth and Main streets for a number of years.

His widow, Mrs. Ella Boring McCown, and three children, survive.

WILL COLLECT DOG TAXES HERE

Deputy Sheriff J. L. McDevitt, recently assigned by Sheriff George Wright to look after collections of dog taxes in this district, announced today he will start work next Monday in Wellsville.

It is not the intention of the authorities, McDevitt asserted, to cause any arrests, but owners of dogs who have not yet obtained their licenses, will be expected to produce the fee and the penalty as well.

Ohioans Cop Cage Tilt.

Girls Pleading For Style Hints and Screen Jobs Worry Sheik

Valentino Says he Was Flooded With Feminine Attentions During His Recent Visit in London.

NEW YORK—Rudolph Valentino is fed up with women—and it's their own fault.

The screen star discloses that during a recent visit to London in the course of his trip to Paris in connection with his divorce case, he was flooded with feminine attentions, not only at his hotel and at his public appearances, but also in the form of letters from admirers, either telling him how much they liked him and his acting, or asking for advice in matters of dress and complexion. Valentino is provoked:

"Do you think short skirts break the line?" writes one. "Breaking the line" may be familiar jargon to ladies; it merely sounds nautical to me. Or perhaps, I am thinking of crossing the line. I don't know or care. "I am tall and slim," writes another, "with good features. Do you think Russian boots will suit me?" I imagined she intended to write "good feet," and dismissed it as indelicate. "But I am pleased to receive these letters, if only for one reason. I have a little nephew who collects stamps. He is having a tremendous time just now."

"And then there are the girls who aspire to screen fame. Every day they write me and phone me. "To be a successful film actress, a girl must have all three of these attributes—good features, as distinct from mere prettiness; a real screen by that soul-straining process of 'ability, which can be confirmed only through the mill,' and a personality that impresses. Without one of these she is useless. With all three her struggle for fame is still about the hardest in any profession in the world."

Valentino says he is sorry for the love-sick girls who write to him, and concludes that "there must be something wrong with the eye-sight of the young men in their districts, or these girls would be far too happily engaged to write to me."

Charlie Chaplin In Greatest Comedy At the American

At last, the world's foremost comedian, Charlie Chaplin, has launched his greatest comedy, "The Gold Rush," on the sea of popular fancy. Announcement is made by Manager Smith of the American theatre, that he has paid the record price for any play ever shown in East Liverpool and that the celebrated star's new United Artists Corporation release comes here on Monday.

For 16 months, Charlie Chaplin worked on this production. During that time he was practically a hermit—reclusive to all, save his studio associates. Only the vaguest announcements of progress on "The Gold Rush" came from his studio. The factory system of movies, and the consequent mediocrity as an art, have in Charlie Chaplin an example of the opposite production method in this dramatic comedy. It has been made with the artist's necessary leisure. It

Fourteen Cases On Calendar of Municipal Court

Fourteen cases have been assigned for a hearing in municipal court next week. Two cases listed for disposal on Monday, three on Tuesday, eight on Wednesday and one on Thursday. Here is the assignment announced by Judge Hanley:

Monday, Davis, Burkham & Tyler vs. W. H. Henderson.

Tuesday, James Ut vs. James Means.

Wednesday, Lewis Bros. vs. Clarence Boyce, Edward Kirkham vs. the city of East Liverpool.

James Rinehart vs. Charles Vaughn.

Thursday, Tri-State Electric company, Ben L. Bennett, vs. W. A. Stockford.

Tri-State Electric company, Ben L. Bennett, vs. I. K. Morgan.

Tri-State Electric company, Ben L. Bennett, vs. Thomas Harley.

Tri-State Electric company, Ben L. Bennett, vs. A. O. Buchelt.

Tri-State Electric company, Ben L. Bennett, vs. J. L. Griffin.

Tri-State Electric company, Ben L. Bennett, vs. Harvey Duke.

Ceramic Motor company, Crawford & Cochran, vs. John Anthony.

David Beagle, Ben L. Bennett, vs. Charles Humphrey, G. Y. Travis.

Thursday, H. H. Hall vs. Albert M. Gatrell.

The attic of a home, built on a hillside, is being used as a garage. The family lives on the first and second floors, down the hill from the street level.

WE are awaiting your call. When accidents happen to your clothes we can be depended upon for quick service in taking out spots and neutralizing stains. Your suit may now look old but when its texture has been thoroughly cleaned and freshened up you will again appreciate its wearfulness and style.
